Cavour artist releases the beauty locked in the wood

Tom Gialdini turns a chalice from a piece of interesting wood.

By Mike Monte

Artists don't always work with paint, plaster or stone. This Cavour artist works with wood, and he doesn't always get to make the final decision as to size, shape or color. He works with wood, and the wood often makes these final decisions regarding the work.

Tom Gialdini is a Cavour artist who does his artistry on a wood lathe. He makes bowls, cups, chalices and vases from local wood, usually the part that a logger cuts off and leaves to rot. His turnings are made from the burls on hardwood and cedar trees that grown in the nearby forests. He turns forest refuse into forest jewels, and they are very eye-catching and beautiful. The burl, as pointed out, makes the final decision on the finished work, and no two are alike.

Tom works from his shop, next to his home, at the corner of Highway 139 and Cemetery Road in the town of Cavour. He keeps an inventory of his work in the shop, but he will do custom turnings as well. Have an interesting piece of wood you would like turned into a vessel, bringing out the beauty of the wood, he is your guy. His work will make interesting gifts or an heirloom that can be passed through the generations of your family. Each piece is signed by the artist, and would make great centerpieces for any table or buffet.

If you would like to peruse the inventory Tom has in stock or order a custom piece, just call 715-219-4430 to set up a visit. He isn't always in the shop, but is often out gathering material.

A message from your DNR for deer gun hunting

Wisconsin Deer Hunt 1910

MADISON -- Opening weekend of the gun deer season, a special time of year for hunters throughout Wisconsin, is less than a week away.

This year, hunters will see some important rule changes implemented as a result of Deer Trustee Report recommendations and extensive input from the hunting public.

While many of your favorite hunting traditions will endure, hunters are encouraged to take some time this week to make sure they are ready for any rule changes that will affect their hunt.

"Many of the most common questions that we have received about these rules involve tagging deer and what tag they can use," said Kevin Wallenfang, big game

Local logger supplies the capitol Christmas

By Mike Monte

Enterprise logger Dennis Schoeneck had the honor of supplying the Christmas tree that will adorn the rotunda in the state capitol building this year. Dennis is shown above cutting the tree and preparing for a snow bath when the tree falls. In addition to the tree for the rotunda, Dennis also donated 14 smaller trees, four of which will grace the square around the capitol building and ten that will be displayed in the governor's mansion.

Dennis is active in community affairs and timber issues, and he does business at Enterprise Forest Products in eastern Oneida County.

Trails in the National Forest impacted by early snowfall

RHINELANDER, Wis. (Nov. 13, 2014) – The arrival of the first major snow storm has many recreation enthusiasts ready to hit the trails, but trails on the Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest aren't quite ready.

"This early snowfall is problematic because the ground underneath isn't frozen yet which sets the base for the trails," said Jeff Mell, lands and recreation program manager for the Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest. "With ground conditions on the forest still soft – users could easily damage the trails.

"In an ideal year, the ground would freeze first before the first snow providing a sturdy base to trails that will not be damaged by use," said Mell.

With the new snow the Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest will be working to prep the trails for the entire season and opening them to users when conditions are appropriate.

"We have been out checking the ground conditions and will begin packing them in the coming weeks to set the base," said Mell.

"We appreciate everyone's enthusiasm for winter recreation and ask for your patience as we prepare the trails so they can be maintained the rest of the season."

To get the latest information on recreation sites and their status on the Chequamegon-Nicolet National Forest, please visit www.fs.usda.gov/CNNF.

2251 North Shore Drive, Rhinelander

The Ministry Home Care staff invites you to a night of fellowship and sharing by lighting a light on the Seventh Annual Tree of Love ceremony at Ministry Saint Mary's Hospital. The Tree of Love will be dedicated during a special memorial celebration.

The holiday season can be very painful for those who have had a death in the family, whether it occurred recently, or many years ago. Ministry Home Care established the Tree of Love in Rhinelander in 2008, as a way to recognize the pain of loss, and to begin the holiday season with love and memories.

The Tree of Love will be lit for the first time at this dedication and nightly thereafter through the holiday season. Memorial donations in memory of a loved one are $10 for each handmade ornament with the proceeds benefitting the Hospice program. Each person who purchases a handmade ornament will have a memorial tag placed on the tree to honor your loved one and you will be able to take the handmade ornament home.

All memorials received by November 21, will be printed in the memorial booklet. Donations can be sent to the Ministry Home Care office located at 1864 Stevens Street in Rhinelander.

Eurasian water milfoil is an aggressive aquatic plant that comes from Europe, Asia, and North Africa. It is quick growing and can form dense mats that can take over the lake. Once established it often makes fishing, boating and general recreation very difficult. This plant is very difficult to eradicate or manage once established in a lake. It only takes a two inch fragment of this plant to start in a new lake and often hitches a ride on someone's boat when they travel to a new waterbody.

To prevent spreading Eurasian water milfoil and other aquatic invasive species please follow these rules.

- 1) Remove all aquatic plants, animals and mud from boats, trailers, and equipment before leaving the boat landing.
- 2) Drain all water from your boat, motor, bilge, transom wells, and livewells before leaving the boat landing.
- 3) Do not move live fish away from a boat landing. A live fish is a fish still in water. Drain water from all containers containing your fish including pails, coolers, livewells, and bait buckets. Frozen water bottles or ice can be used in place of water to keep fish fresh.

Remember it is up to all of us to protect our lakes from aquatic invasive species.

For additional information or questions please contact Lumberjack Resource Conservation and Development Aquatic Invasive Species Coordinator John Preuss at (715) 369-9886 or johnpreuss@frontier.com a new Lennox gas furnace in Antigo for a family whose current furnace was the original and was very old and they had to keep the thermostat at 60F to afford the heating bills.

Homeowner Mike Roelse was severely injured in combat during his tour in Afghanistan by rocket and mortar fire. Due to the complexity of his injuries he has to remain in Sheboygan near medical assistance to meet his healthcare demands. Mike and his wife DeAnna have their home in Antigo where she proudly raises two children.

Schulz Heating & Cooling Ltd. installed a new Lennox 93% high-efficiency gas furnace. By replacing the home's original furnace, the Roelse's will no longer need to walk around in sweatshirts and pants to keep warm this winter! DeAnna and Mike really appreciated the new benefits of the new furnace and thermostat.

Schulz Heating & Cooling Ltd. are very grateful for the opportunity they had with Lennox to provide another family with a new hi-efficiency heating system that will keep their home warm and cozy for many years to come. Linda, Terry and Nick Schulz are so grateful for their employees; Katie, Sara, Ed, Russ, Nate and Herm for donating their time to better the lives of the recipients of this Lennox furnace. They would also like to mention two HVAC students from NTC Wausau; Trey and Shawn for their assistance with this install.

Yoga: Something for Everyone

Millions of people worldwide practice yoga for its exceptional benefits. If you've been wanting to try yoga, here are some basics.

Well-documented rewards:

- Increased strength, flexibility and balance
- Reduced back pain and tension
- Stress relief and enhanced relaxation
- Improved mental focus and concentration

Yoga involves movements, positions, breathing, relaxation and meditation that can lead to gradual changes in physical and mental well-being. Yoga has the potential to aid numerous health problems, including arthritis, diabetes, asthma, insomnia, fibromyalgia, high blood pressure and heart disease.

The American College of Sports Medicine lists 15 varieties of yoga. They vary in pace and emphasis, from slower-moving practices (breathing and meditation) to faster, flowing sequences combined with rhythmic breathing for a full-body workout.

For starters, you can try a basic yoga class if you're generally healthy. If you have any major injuries or ailments, consider a class offering an easier form of yoga designed for people with chronic conditions and limited abilities. See your health care provider first if you are pregnant or have back, blood pressure or balance problems or other health conditions.

You can modify yoga postures based on your abilities. Learn more at the Yoga Alliance Registry: www.yogaalliance.org.

Ministry prepared for next open enrollment for the Healthcare Insurance Exchange

Health Care leaders and staff are well prepared for the November 15, 2014 launch of open enrollment for healthcare coverage provided by the Affordable Care Act (ACA). Last year after some early setbacks with the online signup tool, millions of uninsured Americans found coverage through the Healthcare Marketplace. By the end of the extended enrollment period more than 7.3 million had signed up for coverage, exceeding estimates for the program's first year.

While there are still some concerns being raised, a number of positive things have occurred during the first year of the program including a reduction in the number of uninsured, coverage is generally more affordable, the online registration process is working well and expected to continue and with coverage in place, people are now more willing to seek care early as opposed to waiting until something becomes critical. Federal officials are estimating that upwards of 13 million Americans will have coverage this year.

Ministry Health Care launched an effort to enroll individuals in plans last year by identifying and training Certified Application Counselors (CAC) who combined enrolled 750 individuals in the ACA marketplace and BadgerCare across all of the regions served. Again this year, the CACs are prepared to offer assistance to anyone seeking coverage through the Affordable Care Act once the open enrollment period begins in mid-November.

The following list of facilities and phone numbers may be used to set up a time to meet with a Certified Applications Counselor during the open enrollment period.

- Howard Young Medical Center 715.356.8674
- Ministry Eagle River Memorial Hospital 715.356.8674
- Ministry Good Samaritan Health Center 715.539.2404
- Ministry Our Lady of Victory Hospital 715.644.6188 or 715.644.6135.

- Ministry Saint Clare's Hospital 715.393.3094
- Ministry Saint Mary's Hospital 715.361.2333

Two holiday concerts coming to Nicolet College Dec. 4, 14

The Home and Heart of the Holiday concert will take place at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Dec. 4, in the Nicolet College Theatre.

Songs of the holidays will fill the Nicolet College Theatre in coming weeks as two special concerts will be held as part of the Nicolet Live! Performing Arts Series.

Kicking off the season will be the Home and Heart of the Holiday concert at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 4. Singer Laurie Craig and pianist Carmen invite everyone to gather for an evening of yuletide cheer that will include a litany of popular favorites and seasonal classics.

"We picked the songs that brought back our fondest memories of the holidays when we were growing up," Craig said. "We wanted songs that were warm and welcoming as well as those that are meaningful to the season."

Violin and guitar accompanists along with other special guests will join the two for selections designed to fill the theatre with holiday cheer.

Tickets are $7 and can be ordered online at nicoletlive.com or by calling (715) 365-4646.

The ever-popular Community Holiday Concert will follow later in the month as five local musical groups perform starting at 2 p.m., Sunday, Dec. 14. Admission is free.

The Nicolet Male Chorus, Nicolet Choraliers, Hymns and Hyrs, the Learning in Retirement Chorus, and the Lakeland Barbershop Chorus will all perform during this afternoon concert featuring holiday and seasonal songs. Donations of non-perishable food items and money will be accepted at the door.

The Cemetery Walk

By Winnie Krueger

"Everyone here has a wonderful story to tell." This comment was heard often after the cemetery walk on Monday, October 27 sponsored by the Forest County Historical & Genealogical Society, Crandon Public Library and the Crandon Drama Club. For a crowd of about 70 people of all ages with flashlights and lanterns the history of Crandon became a living story of real people.

After the success of the first cemetery walk this summer, History Clerk, Amanda Flannery decided to enlist the help of high school students to portray early Crandon residents for the second walk. Drama coach, Alicia Bradley fired up her students and, even though they were competing in the conference play competition, they rose to the occasion.

Historic characters chosen for this walk and the student actors were: William VanZile - Abby Ostrowski, Ida Dutcher - Celia Space, Clarence Harry Poppy - Tyler Sturzl, Egbert Woodbury - Sam Gobert, Lillian Hewitt - Grace Gunderson, Jesse Smith - Brianna Perry, James Louis Haile - Tiffany Hauser, George Bailey - Abby Pease. All did a great job with their stories of hard work, heartbreak, tragedy and joy that is the foundation of our community. Kids, you were great!

This event was an excellent example of what success can be achieved when individuals, organizations, and the school work together to present an evening that is both entertaining and educational for the whole community. If you missed this great evening, hope to see you at the Third Cemetery Walk next year. There are many stories yet to tell.

ATV/UTV season is over... Snowmobiling just around the corner

Did you ever wonder how those ATV/UTV and snowmobile trails appear each year just in time for riding fun? Club volunteers spend countless hours working with landowners, putting up signs, brushing trails and getting grooming equipment ready. Trails are maintained by clubs across Wisconsin with partial funding provided by the registration fees paid each year for snowmobiles, ATVs and UTVs. Clubs supplement this funding with local fundraisers to meet the total cost of keeping the trails in the great condition riders expect.

All clubs are volunteer groups and are always looking for new members. You may ask why you should join a club. First off it is a lot of fun interacting with others who share your passion for motorized recreation. You also get to join your voice with the club and state organizations who work hard to keep trails open as anti-motorized groups push to achieve their goals. Representing the snowmobile sport here in Wisconsin is the Association of Wisconsin Snowmobile Clubs (AWSC) and on the ATV/UTV side there is the Wisconsin ATV/UTV Association (WATVA). Both work with clubs and members to convince our legislators at the local, state and national levels that snowmobilers and ATV/UTV owners have or should have equal rights under the law and that our recreational endeavors are compatible with other users.

Prospective club members often ask how involved they have to be if they join. The easy answer is as involved as you want to be. Some club members may brush trails, run grooming equipment, help with fundraisers or hold leadership positions. Others just want to be social members who participate in the fun activities. Clubs fully recognize that folks lead busy lives and can't always be as active as they would want. As mentioned above just the sheer numbers of those involved in club activities is important to our legislators. There is a bit of the old "squeaky wheel get the grease" saying that applies here.

The Oconto County Snowmobile Alliance consists of nine clubs including the Oconto Falls Snow Jokers, , Sno-Chasers, Gillett Sno & ATV Riders, Lena Snow Drifters, Chute Pond Snowmobile Club, Paul Bunyan Riders of Lakewood and Red Arrow Snowmobile ATV Club of Townsend. The Iron Snowshoe Snowmobile

Club of Marinette County also belongs to the Alliance as they have trails coming into the eastern side of Oconto County. These clubs spend nearly 10,000 volunteer hours each year preparing, brushing and grooming the 475 miles of trail in the county.

ATV/UTV Clubs in Oconto County include the Dusty Trails ATV Club in Mountain, Hidden Bear Trail ATV Club in the Lakewood/Riverview/Doty area, Crooked Trail Riders ATV Club in Crooked Lake and the Oconto Area ATV Club in Oconto. Red Arrow in Townsend and Gillett Snow & ATV riders in Gillett are year round clubs that have members who either snowmobile or ATV/UTV and some who enjoy both. These clubs are responsible for about 450 miles of interconnected summer trails and routes. Overall coordination of the county wide trail systems is the responsibility of the Oconto County Parks and Recreation Department.

Both Snowmobile and ATV/UTV trail systems connect to adjoining counties including Marinette, Forest, Langlade and Florence and there is direct access to Michigan trails via the Nicolet State Recreational Trail.

More information about obtaining Trail Maps, the individual clubs and links to their websites can be found at www.ocontocounty.org. Again, we encourage you to join a club and get involved. We are only a "round trip tank of gas" away from Green Bay and the Fox Valley and less than three hours from the Milwaukee area making Oconto County an ideal "up-north" riding destination. Even if you don't ride a sled, ATV or UTV but own a business or just want to get involved we welcome your assistance. Check the website just above for the club nearest you and volunteer to join or help...either financially or with your time.

Crandon NHS Inducts New Members

On November 6th, 2014 at the Crandon High School Auditorium, 22 students were inducted into the Crandon High School Chapter of the National Honor Society by NHS advisor Karen Lehman.

Assisting in the candle lit ceremony were faculty Council member: Dr. Cindy Edlund and a former NHS Member: Benjamin Gliński "99". The congratulatory speech was given by superintendent of schools Mr. James Asher.

The National Association of High School Principals sponsors the National Honor Societies which were formed as a way to recognize students who are outstanding in four areas: scholarship, leadership, character and service.

The new inductees this year were juniors: Anthea Enbah, daughter of Ken and Eunice Keepers; Talor Walentowski, son of, Al Walentowski and Libby Morrow; Andrew Lehman, son of Jeff and Karen Lehman; Khusin-Ujin Uranchimeg daughter of Kyle & Oyunbold Palmer; Katelyn Houle daughter of Joseph and Nicole Houle; Katie Kalkofen daughter of Mike and Tina Kalkofen.

Nicolet College law enforcement training enhances public safety, cuts costs for local agencies

It used to be local law enforcement agencies had to shell out big bucks to send staff for training that advanced overall public safety in the Northwoods.

The reason: typically the training was held hundreds of miles away. Lodging, travel, meals, and the high tuition cost of many of these multi-day professional development workshops were just too much for many agencies - especially the smaller ones - to handle.

"We wanted to change that," said Phil Schmidt, Criminal Justice instructor at Nicolet College.

"Budgets are tight across the board, so we figured if we could offer this training in the Northwoods at Nicolet, we would be able to make advanced and specialized training much more accessible for local departments."

In recent years Schmidt and others at the college have brought in hundreds of workshops. So far this year alone Nicolet has offered 32 law enforcement professional development classes attended by 562 participants.

"By offering this training locally, students don't have to travel as far and they can go home at night. That alone is a significant cost savings. Students also don't have to be away from their families for extended periods, which can be pretty disruptive for those with children, especially small children."

While most of those attending are from the Northwoods, others are not.

"We get a lot people from all across the state and even surrounding states," he added. "They are the ones that then need lodging, they need to buy meals and gas. All of this money goes directly into our local economy."

Nicolet is able to offer this training, and the specially-trained instructors, thanks to numerous grants, most of which come from the Wisconsin Department of Justice and local entities such as a recent grant received from the Wisconsin Public Service Foundation.

So far in 2014 the college has been awarded $55,870 in grants. Much of this goes to pay for instructor specialists from local and state agencies, the FBI, and recognized national experts.

This year training topics have included how to investigate social networks, weapons training, evidence collection, legal updates, breathalyzer training, leadership and communication classes, and others.

Nicolet works closely with an advisory committee made up of local law enforcement leaders to hear their thoughts on the type of training that is needed. The result is that about half of the class topics are new every year to keep up with changing demand.

"This higher level of training for local law enforcement professionals translates directly into a higher level of public safety," he said. "And that benefits all of us."

ecologist for the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources. "To answer their questions, we first tell them to focus only on the area where they hunt. If they know their county and other basic information, they will have no problem learning this season's new rules."

The department has provided a number of useful resources to help hunters learn the new rules. All hunters are encouraged to review the 2014 deer hunting regulations [PDF] and FAQs, available at dnr.wi.gov, keyword "deer." The deer page also features regulations brochures, tag information and availability, and maps showing new management units and zones.

To ask specific questions before or during the hunt, hunters can also contact the DNR Call Center toll-free at 1-888-WDNRINFO (1-888-936-7463). Call center staff are on hand seven days per week from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Spanish- and Hmong-speaking representatives are also available.

Hunters interested in receiving email updates regarding new regulations can sign up to receive occasional email reminders about season dates, license and tag types, and other important information. Visit dnr.wi.gov and click on the email icon near the bottom of the page for "subscribe for updates for DNR topics," then follow the prompts and select a list of your choice.

Wallenfang encourages all hunters to take some extra time to review the new rules before heading into the field this weekend.

"It will help prevent confusion and frustration so hunters can focus on enjoying this exciting week with family and friends, and hopefully bringing home your deer," he said.

Improvements to USDA Beginning Farmer Loans

By Traci Bruckner, tracib@cfra.org,
Center for Rural Affairs

USDA recently announced several changes to Farm Service Agency (FSA) loan programs, changes designed to help more beginning farmers and ranchers. The new “interim final rule” will increase the Microloan limit from $35,000 to $50,000. This program provides a simplified application process and a seven year payback. Microloans can be used for approved operating expenses, such as seed, fertilizer, utilities, land rents, marketing, distribution, living expenses, livestock, equipment, hoop houses, tools, irrigation and delivery vehicles.

USDA is also changing the “experience” requirement for FSA Direct Farm Ownership loans. Previously, applicants had to prove they participated in the operations of a farm for at least three years. Beginning farmers across the country identified this restriction as a real barrier. It is not reflective of current realities in which new farmers enter agriculture.

The change will allow beginning farmers and ranchers to substitute one year of that three-year requirement with a formal farming apprenticeship, operation or management of a non-farm business, leadership or management experience while serving in any branch of the military, advanced education in an agricultural field, and significant experience in a farm-related agricultural career.

USDA also proposes changing the types of farming entities eligible to apply, potentially opening the door to non-majority investors who are not actively farming or managing the operation. We'll watch these changes closely. The deadline to submit public comments on these changes to the USDA is December 8, 2014. Contact Traci Bruckner, tracib@cfra.org, for more information.

Nearly half-million dollar federal grant to advance Nursing instruction at Nicolet

Two new opportunities may help Northwoods residents seeking Nursing degrees at Nicolet College. Qualified students will soon be able to move more quickly through the Nursing Assistant program, a prerequisite for the Nursing program, and those seeking a bachelor's degree in Nursing will be able to stay in the Northwoods while doing so.

The new options are the focus of a $461,531 federal grant the college received from the U.S. Department of Labor.

“There's significant demand for nurses in the Northwoods,” said Kenneth Urban, Nicolet College interim president. “Area health care providers anticipate this demand will grow even more in the future as Baby Boomers continue to retire from the field. This grant will help students meet Nursing program entry requirements more rapidly, allowing Nicolet to train the professionals necessary to deliver high quality health care.”

One component of the grant targets individuals with some work experience in the field. For instance, Emergency Medical Responders, military medics, and corpsmen have extensive training in specific healthcare environments; some of those skills overlap with skills taught in the Nursing Assistant program. Nicolet will use part of its funds to set up a competency testing program so that these students will be able to test out of certain course requirements in the Nursing Assistant program, which is a required academic credential for entry into the Practical Nursing program. Students earn a Practical Nursing degree first on the way to becoming a Registered Nurse. Competency testing will begin in January.

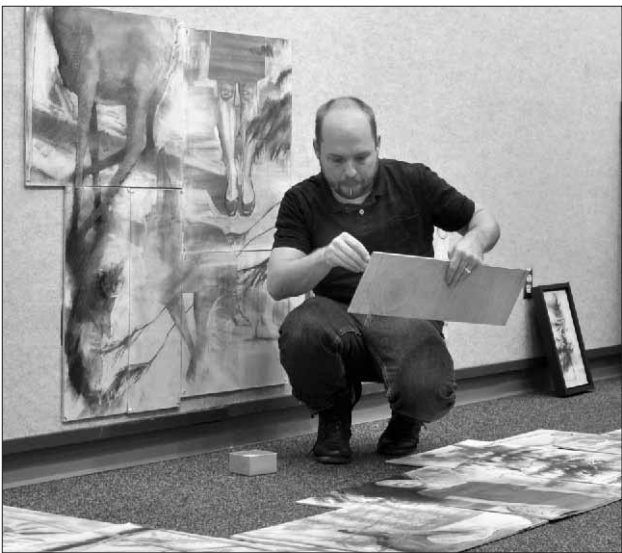

The second component packages course work so students looking to earn a bachelor's degree in Nursing will be able to take the first three years of classes at Nicolet. During the first year students complete general education requirements and the Nursing Assistant program and follow that with two years of Nicolet Nursing courses. The fourth and final year involves nursing theory and leadership courses and is completed almost entirely online with classes from a partner four-year University of Wisconsin campus. General education classes will begin Fall Semester of 2015.

“The beauty of this is that Northwoods students will be able to earn a bachelor's degree in Nursing without having to move to a four-year university,” said Lenore Blemke, dean of Health Occupations at Nicolet. “Most of the classes will be held on the Nicolet Campus. The remaining classes can be completed almost entirely online with only limited visits to a four-year campus.”

The grant to Nicolet is part of the $20 million the U.S. Department of Labor recently awarded to the Wisconsin Technical College System to advance job training in high-demand employment sectors.

The grant will also fund a success coach to help students with everything from enrolling in the program to finding employment after they graduate. Funds will also provide professional development guidance to educators and employers working with veterans and displaced workers.

Work of Nicolet College art instructor Nate Wilson featured in latest Nicolet Art Gallery exhibit

In the art world, you have to know the rules before you can break the rules.

That's one approach Nicolet College Art Instructor Nate Wilson likes to take when he puts brush and pencil to paper to make his intriguing works of art.

“I like people to be challenged when they look at certain pieces but I also want it to be inviting to them,” said Wilson, who currently has more than 70 pieces on display in the latest exhibit in the Nicolet College Art Gallery.

Stroll through the gallery and it's easy to see that Wilson has a unique view. Take a few of the pieces where his subjects appear to be floating lightly on their toes in almost a dream-like world.

“I've always had this interest in what I call unbalance in the composition,” said Wilson, who has a master's of fine art from Laguna College of Art and Design. “I just don't want to create anything that's boring.”

Wilson also taught art at Laguna College of Art and Design and for seven year interned under famed New York City Illustrator Brad Holland, whose work regularly appears in such publications as Time, Vanity Fair, The New Yorker, Rolling Stone, and The New York Times.

Along with his interpretive work, the exhibit also features 19 portraits that Wilson painted of Nicolet staff members – an endeavor that, surprisingly for him, proved physically challenging.

While also teaching a full load of courses, he'd have people come between or after classes to sit for the portraits. Each session took about two hours and he'd commonly have two or more sessions in a day in addition to teaching several classes.

“Honestly, I don't think I ever do it that way again,” he said. “There were times when I literally felt like I was going to fall down.”

In addition to his figurative and portrait work, the exhibit also includes a few pieces from a new genre for Wilson: landscapes and animals.

“That's really the result of moving to northern Wisconsin,” said Wilson, who left California three years ago to join the Nicolet faculty. “Landscapes and animals are a big part of the area here. This is the first place I've ever lived where you ask yourself 'Is there a bear outside?' or 'Is that a wolf I hear?' It's just part of life here.”

Wilson will have his work on display through December 6. Admission to the exhibit is free.

The gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Fridays and Saturdays. The gallery will be closed for Thanksgiving November 27 and 28.

WHS Student of the Week Ian McKenna

Junior, Ian McKenna, of Townsend is Wabeno High School's Student of the Week of November 17-21. Ian is the son of Keli Derfus and stepson of Dominic Derfus. He is the brother of Lauren McKenna and stepbrother of Taylor and Marina Derfus. When informed of this award, Ian expressed surprise, but really enjoyed being appreciated for what he does.

Ian was chosen by Mrs. Carol Bartlein, Library Media Specialist, because she appreciates his helpful concern whenever anyone asks him for help with technology. His passion for everything digital and computerized is impressive! Many times teachers will turn to Ian with technology issues before turning to school's technology coordinators. His quiet, respectful, and kind personality is heartwarming in a world that is sometimes too fast and uncaring. Ian loves the technological side of theater.

Last week he lit up Wabeno's recent production of The Haunting of Hedron House; he was the lighting technician. Without his dedication to lighting, the show is not possible. The Fall Play and Spring Musical are Ian's favorite times of the year. In addition to his love for stage technology, while at school, Ian loves to hang out with his friends. He always likes to work with his computer and any type of technology. Currently, Ian is advising Mrs. Bartlein on what a good media production studio needs.

Ian's heroes are his mom and step-dad. They are always there for him when times get tough. He knows he can seek them out when he needs someone to talk to. One of Ian's favorite relatives is his grandfather. Ian loves the strength his grandfather has. He claims that his grandfather knows how to fix anything that is broken. All the furniture in his bedroom was built by Ian and his grandfather.

Ian is not sure what he wants to do when he graduates, but he is gravitating toward the tech side of theater. With his abilities and the continued support of friends and family, Ian is sure to make his future dreams come true.

Delores Brooks honored at Blackwell Job Corps

While it is always fun to acknowledge coworkers for their hard work and dedication, participating in honoring Delores Brooks this morning has to be at the top of my list. We are truly blessed to work with such a fine lady. Staff and students alike think the world of Ms. Delores. She is an inspiration to all of us.

Now eighty-five years old, Delores has been doing laundry at Blackwell for over 26 years. Rough calculations estimate that this little 4 foot, 9 inch spitfire has washed, dried, and folded over 50,000 loads – always with a smile on her face. Definitely small in stature but big in heart.

Health Advocates Promote Resources for Lung Cancer Awareness Month

November is Lung Cancer Awareness Month—an opportunity to reflect on the terrible toll that lung cancer takes on Wisconsin families every year. To honor those taken by lung cancer and to prevent future deaths, the Northwood’s Tobacco Free Coalition is reminding tobacco users that free resources are available to help them quit.

Lung cancer is now the number-one cause of cancer death for both men and women, according to the 2014 Surgeon General’s Report on Smoking and Health. The report also shows that almost nine out of 10 lung cancers are caused by smoking. Another startling finding from the report is that smokers today are more likely to develop lung cancer than those of 50 years ago.

According to the Wisconsin Interactive Statistics on Health, 24 Forest County residents have died from lung cancer from 2010-2012.

While addiction can take a powerful hold on tobacco users, it can be beaten with the help of free resources. The Northwood’s Tobacco Free Coalition encourages individuals who smoke or use other tobacco products to call the Wisconsin Tobacco Quit Line at 1-800-QUIT NOW for free assistance. In addition to receiving personal coaching, Quit Line callers can also receive a starter pack of quit smoking medications.

Evidence shows that the combination of quit smoking counseling and FDA-approved medications like nicotine gum, patches, and lozenges is the most effective way to successfully quit. Both counseling and medications are available through the quit line.

For more on local tobacco prevention control efforts, visit www.nwtfc.org or call the Forest County Health Department at 715-478-3371.

Nicolet AARP Chapter 1191

The Nicolet AARP meeting for October at the Lakewood Presbyterian Church started off as a pot luck dinner with many tasty dishes, salads, and deserts enjoyed by 41 members. A brief meeting followed the dinner. Members were reminded that the November meeting will be primarily for the election of officers and board members for those whose term will expire. Following the meeting the white elephant sale resulted in some active bidding for attractively wrapped packages with a nice surprise for each winning bidder.

Members were reminded to sign up for the AARP Christmas Party which will be held again this year at Waubesa Lodge on December 8, 2014. Cost is $14.00 for members. Bring a non-perishable food item for the food pantry. The Christmas Party is always a special event with fun, food, friends, fellowship, and surprises. Sign up at the November meeting or contact Carol Butrymowicz at 715-276-3468.

All persons 50 and over are invited to join the local AARP Chapter. AARP meetings are social, entertaining, and informative. Meetings are held at the Lakewood Presbyterian Church on the fourth Tuesday of each month starting at 1:30 pm (winter hours). Contact Joyce West, Membership Chairman, at 715-276-9409.
