COVID-19 response in Forest County school districts

As many community members are aware, Forest County currently has the highest COVID-19 burden (case rate) of all counties in Wisconsin. This burden has started to take a toll on our area school districts. Forest County school districts have spent countless hours creating plans in preparation for the first day of school and continue to work around the clock to keep their students and staff in a safe and healthy learning environment.

The re-opening of schools creates a setting where non-household members are interacting, thereby increasing the risk of exposure to COVID-19 and the likelihood of spreading the virus. Each school district has been affected by illness, and isolation and quarantine of students and/or staff. They have been working closely with the health department to conduct a thorough investigation to track, contact trace and provide isolation and quarantine guidance to families as needed.

Proven actions that everyone can take to slow the spread of COVID-19 in Forest County include:

- Avoid large gatherings and limit nonessential trips into the community
- Stay home when you are sick and do not send students to school if they are ill
- Watch for symptoms of COVID-19
- Seek testing from a healthcare provider if you have symptoms
- Wear a mask in public
- Maintain physical distance from others
- Frequently wash your hands and cover your coughs

Each district has the goal to keep their doors open to in-person instruction in a safe and healthy manner. As a community, we can all help achieve that goal by following these guidelines.

Get Your Flu Shot!

Get your flu shot! This is what health professionals are telling us on a daily basis. Getting the normal flu isn't as bad as getting the current pandemic covid 19, but the combination could be a disaster for those unlucky enough to get both.

The Forest County Health Department has set up the 2020 Flu Shot Clinic Schedule in communities around the county.

Turn to page 14 to find a flu shot clinic near you.

Senior Harvest Dance in Lakewood

A Senior Harvest Dance will be held on Saturday, October 3rd, from 7 p.m. until 11 p.m. at the McCauslin Brook Golf and Country Club in Lakewood

This is a free event! There will be music by the popular "Lovin' Country" group. Put on your dancing shoes and enjoy the festivities!

Conservation Corner When is the Best Time to Seed Your Prairie Flowers?

Fall is a great time to plant your prairie grasses and flowers. Smooth Phlox, Wild Petunia, Blue Vervain, and Wild Bergamot are just a few that are native to Wisconsin. These seeds need exposure to cold, damp conditions for better germination rates. Most of these flowers and grass seeds have a built-in dormancy that need to be exposed to the cold conditions for a specific amount of time. Once the soil starts to warm up in the spring the seed will know it is okay to germinate.

Early fall is also a good time to transplant your trilliums, bloodroot, Virginia bluebells, etc. By planting them early in the fall, this give the plants enough time to establish their roots for a head start come spring. Before the snow flies a good tip is to cover your early-blooming spring ephemerals with a few inches of straw.

Watch for the Forest County Land Conservation Plant Sale. Coming soon!

Schaefer family celebrates 85 years of doing business

The drawings of the various Schaefer stores were done by Doneda Schaefer, an accomplished artist. This building on Madison St. was the first Schaefer store.

It was in 1935 when Jack and Doneda Schaefer first saw the City of Crandon. They rode along from Appleton with Doneda's brother, who was interested in buying a funeral home in Crandon.

He didn't like the place, but Jack Schaefer fell in love with this little northern city, and before he left, he had a meat concession for one of the local grocers. Before long, he had opened his own store, and continued to supply meat and groceries to people in this area.

It was a tough time. His start in Crandon was in the middle of the Great Depression. However, he wasn't somebody who gave up easily. He moved his business to a variety of buildings that are still being in use today by other businesses. When he sensed that old age was catching up with him, he called on his son, Jack Schaefer, to return to Crandon and take over the business. At this time, the store was located where Northern Lakes Service is located today.

Experiencing crowding and lack of sales space, son Jack bought a piece of rough land on the southeast corner of Crandon, a small front end loader and started moving dirt from the hill to the lower ground. When the site was prepared, a new store was built and Pioneer Plaza was started. That store has been added to a number of times, Conway True Value moved to the new plaza and put up a new store, the Liquor Lode was built, a laundromat, and the old Soo Line depot was moved to the plaza and became the Cracker Box restaurant. This is the Gas Depot today.

Jack has since passed on, but the business is now in the hands of Jay Schaefer, the third generation, and the fourth generation, Jay's son John, is now involved in the business.

Nicolet College Foundation encourages future and current students to apply for scholarships

Anyone planning on enrolling in Nicolet College credit classes in the Spring or Summer Terms of 2021 is encouraged to apply for any one of the more than 100 scholarships being offered by the Nicolet College Foundation.

"Scholarships can go a long way in helping students pay for college and we encourage anyone who plans to attend Nicolet next year to fill out the application," said Heather Schallock, executive director of the Nicolet College Foundation. "The application process is fairly easy and straightforward and we know scholarships can make a big difference in students' lives as they work their way to graduation."

All applications must be submitted online at nicoletcollege.edu/scholarships between Oct. 5 and Oct. 26.

Nicolet scholarships are available for both new and continuing students and range in value from $250 to $1,350. Funds are applied directly to the cost of tuition and books. Both part-time and full-time students with a cumulative grade point average of 2.5 or higher are eligible to receive scholarships.

Schallock noted that the scholarships are available only because of the generosity of Foundation donors.

"They truly believe in the value of a college education," she said. "They see how it can improve the lives of individuals and also benefit the communities in which graduates live and work."

For more information about scholarships, contact the Nicolet College Foundation office at (715) 365-4518, 1-800-544-3039, ext. 4518; TTY 1-800-947-3529 or 711 relay; or by email at hschallock@nicoletcollege.edu.

Crandon International and Jamey Flannery Trucking support community law enforcement with special donation

Crandon International Promoter Marty Fiolka (left) and Forest County Deputy Sheriff DJ Wilson exchange a warm handshake after Sunday afternoon's announcement held on the track's legendary podium.

CRANDON, Wisconsin (September 29, 2020) -- As has been the case since its inception, Crandon International Raceway has operated as a not-for-profit club that has donated millions of dollars back into the local community of Crandon and the Forest County that surrounds the track.

This important 51-year-old tradition continued this year as Crandon International Raceway and Jamey Flannery Trucking combined to support local law enforcement at the 2020 Forest County Potawatomi Brush Run event held last weekend. During opening ceremonies before the Pro category season finals track officials announced the donation of two new drug enforcement K9s to the Forest County Sheriff's Department.

The donation was inspired by the recent and unexpected loss of two K9 dogs serving the Sheriff's Department. In a statement made before the race weekend, the department said, "It is with deep sadness that we share with you the loss of Forest County Sheriff's Department K9 Leroy. During his two years of service with the Forest County Sheriff's Office, he was involved in hundreds of narcotics searches and seizures throughout Northeast Wisconsin. K9 Leroy was an invaluable tool in the tracking of wanted subjects and the fight against illicit drugs in the Northwoods."

After more than eight years of service the department's second K9, this one named "Mek," is officially retiring on October 15th.

"This donations made by the Board of Directors at Crandon International Raceway and Jamey Flannery Trucking are so very much appreciated," explained Forest County Sheriff John Denney. "Without these type of donations programs like the K9 units wouldn't exist. These dogs are instrumental in fighting the drug and opioid epidemic that has been in our local area for a long time."

Snowmobilers: Time to complete required safety certificate course

MADISON, Wis. – Wisconsin is the birthplace of snowmobiling and continues to offer some of the best snowmobiling opportunities you are likely to find, especially in northern Wisconsin.

More than 200,000 registered snowmobiles hit Wisconsin's 25,000 miles of groomed trails each winter, which means safety is an important part of the ride.

Fall is the ideal time to take the first step of preparing for the upcoming snowmobile season by completing the safety course. The safety course seeks to ensure snowmobilers of all ages are safe while they are having fun on the trails. The course is required for operators born on or after Jan. 1, 1985 and who are 12 years of age or older.

Snowmobile safety is critical. In 2019, 16 fatal snowmobiling accidents occurred, with the top contributing factors being speed and operator error.

The safety course costs $10 and includes six hours of classroom instruction with two optional hours of hands-on instruction or a simulated ride. For those age 16 and older, the course may be completed online.

To register for a classroom course or an online version, visit dnr.wisconsin.gov/Education/OutdoorSkills/safetyEducation

New hunting regulations pamphlet from DNR

Hunters checking out the regulations before heading into the field might notice something a little different this year. The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources has combined its hunting regulations into one convenient document.

The new regulations are printed on larger paper, with color photographs and graphics, along with simplified language for all huntable species in Wisconsin.

"We think these condensed regulations will make things simpler for hunters," said Scott Karel, DNR regulation policy specialist. "Rather than needing to track down multiple hunting regulations pamphlets for different hunting activities, all have been condensed down to one, reducing the number of lines of text and saving money at the same time."

The regulations are available at many license agents throughout the state. They're also posted on the DNR website in English, Spanish and Hmong.

The DNR plans to continue producing separate trapping regulations pamphlets.

More information on hunting, including regulations and season dates, is available on the DNR website. For more updates throughout the fall hunting seasons, follow the DNR on Facebook, Twitter and Instagram.

Thanks Tod, Randy, Chad & Ryan for becoming loggers.

Lynn previously served as a committee member for the City of Crandon Police and Fire Commission.

Together, Lynn & Brenda were blessed with 2 sons and a daughter, 7 grandchildren and 13 great grandchildren with one more due in November. He loved spending time with his family and was so immensely proud of all of his grandchildren & great grandchildren. He was always willing to lift a hand and help whoever was in need.

85 years have passed since the first Jack Schaefer took a liking to Crandon and decided to move here. Jack and his wife Doneda put in hard work back in the days of the depression, and it paid off.

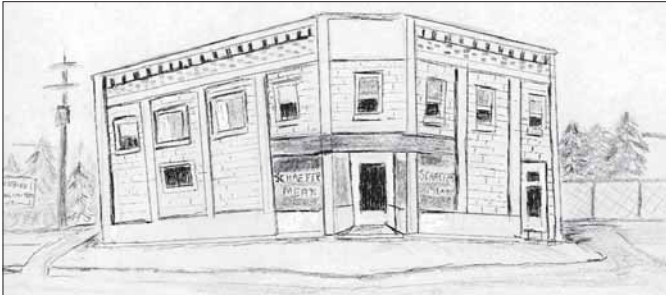

To celebrate 85 years of being in business, Schaefer's store is holding a big Anniversary Sale, and a flier with the details is in this issue of the Pioneer.

This store, we think, is now the north side of the Crandon branch of the Laona State Bank.

This former Schaefer store is now part of Tricia's Treasures.

Northern Lake Service is the current owner of this store that at one time was a car dealership, and then was the last store operated by Schaefer's before the move to Pioneer Plaza.

Due to COVID 19

We will only have bus transportation on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The bus is only transporting within Forest County. Thank You and sorry of any inconvenience.

DNR has new way to count

Extensive survey efforts conducted by the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR), tribal biologists and more than 100 trained citizen volunteers indicate an increase in Wisconsin's wolf population from last year. This increase follows two years of steady abundance estimates and was measured in both the long-standing territory mapping method and the department's new occupancy-based model, which will provide a more robust estimate of the state's wolf population for years to come.

The territory mapping method produces a minimum count of wolves in Wisconsin. This year, the overwinter minimum wolf count was calculated to be 1,034-1,057 wolves, a 13% increase from the 2018-19 minimum estimate of 914-978 wolves. The number of packs detected increased from the previous year from 243 packs to 256.

Over the past seven years, the DNR has researched and developed a new occupancy model, which produces highly reliable estimates, provides a more realistic estimate of the total population size and efficiently makes use of state resources.

Using the new occupancy model, the DNR estimated that there are between 957 and 1,573 wolves in Wisconsin, with the most likely estimate being 1,195 wolves. This is an increase from the 2019 range of 835 to 1,333 wolves with the most likely estimate being 1,047 wolves.

After multiple years of research and testing, DNR researchers are confident transitioning to this new monitoring technique. For the past three years, the DNR has calculated both the outgoing minimum count using territory mapping and the incoming population range using the occupancy model. Each year, the minimum count fell within the occupancy model's population range, giving DNR researchers greater confidence that the new model is a reasonable and reliable alternative to territory mapping for Wisconsin's wolf population.

Moving forward, the DNR will report the wolf population estimate using the numbers calculated with the occupancy model. The department will no longer produce an overwinter minimum count.

To learn more about wolves and wolf monitoring in Wisconsin, visit the DNR website.

From Minimum Count To Occupancy – Changing Methods Since 1979, the DNR has monitored the state's wolf population using a territory mapping method, which produces a minimum count. The territory mapping method incorporates ground-based tracking, aerial observations and location data from collared wolves to map pack areas and estimate pack size. Data are then combined to estimate the minimum number of wolves each winter.

Territory mapping has been a reliable method for producing a minimum wolf count in Wisconsin for 31 years. However, as Wisconsin's wolf population has increased, the amount of effort and resources required to map every pack's territory and determine each pack's size has also increased. While territory mapping was feasible and warranted when the population was small and scattered during the early years of recovery, the need for a new method of monitoring wolves in Wisconsin has become more pressing, particularly now that the population exceeds 1,000 wolves.

Researchers at the DNR and the University of Wisconsin-Madison developed the department's new occupancy model with data from systematic winter tracking surveys and collared wolf packs to estimate the total area occupied by packs. The model then combines average pack territory size with the average number of wolves in each pack to estimate the state's wolf population.

Unlike the territory mapping method, occupancy models do not require that every pack's territory be fully mapped or that every wolf in a pack be counted. Similar to the population modeling tools used for other species, the wolf occupancy model uses statistical tools to estimate likely population levels in areas of the state where data may be lacking. When coupled with direct measures of data quality through a confidence interval, the new approach provides significant improvements over the prior methodology.

Occupancy modeling was first implemented for a state wolf population in Montana in 2007 in response to their rising wolf population. Two years later, Idaho followed Montana's lead and adopted the occupancy-based approach. Both states have been using occupancy models to monitor their wolves ever since. The Wisconsin DNR has built off the work of these states to develop an occupancy-based approach tailored to Wisconsin.

Football is back

Friday night the Crandon Cardinal varsity football team opened its season in a new football only conference Northwoods Football Conference (NFC) against a familiar foe. The Cardinals traveled to Niagara to take on the Northern Elite Predators a team comprised of three schools Goodman, Pembine, and Niagara. The two schools are the only remaining schools from the Northern Lakes conference playing 11-man football so to keep the tradition alive they played for the NLC Conference Cup, a traveling trophy designed and made by the Crandon technical education department.

Coming into the game on paper the youthful Cardinals knew they were up against a tall task taking on the very physically large senior dominated NEP team but the Cardinals did not back down. After exchanging blows and two possessions each the game remained scoreless until midway through the first quarter Cardinal running back Hudson Kane broke free along the left side of the line for an 80-yard touchdown scamper. The 2pt. conversion was converted with a pass from Cardinal quarterback Logan Gretzinger to tight end Carter Bissonette.

The game remained 8-0 until seconds left in the half when NEP scored with a tight end sucker pass of their own, two-point conversion good. Coming out of half tied at 8 the pure size of NEP began to wear on the Cardinal team which resulting in 15 points for NEP in the 3rd quarter.

The teams exchanged touch downs and conversions in the 4th quarter resulting in the final score 30-16 NEP. Crandons final score was a result of some tough running capped off with a 3-yard scoring plunge by Cardinal fullback Konnor Keao, 2pt conversion was good with a quarterback boot keep by Gretzinger.

Cardinals home opener is Friday October 2nd 7 p.m. Statistical leaders: Rushing Hudson Kane 4-88 1TD, Konnor Keao 11-48 1TD, Brett Palubicki 7-45, Caden Palubicki 5-11, Logan Gretzinger 3-3 2pt. Passing: Logan Gretzinger 2-4 28. Receiving: Carter Bissonette 2-28 2pt
