In the last couple weeks the Northwoods has been looking pretty spectacular. Thanks to a combination of freezing fog and excess moisture in the atmosphere many Wisconsinites were treated to a picturesque winter wonderland.

While the dazzling display of crystalline beauty was due to the freezing fog, many assumed the frosty display was hoar frost. However, the tree branches, pine needles, and dried fall foliage flocked with spiky crystals were actually covered with rime ice.

According to meteorologists, rime ice forms when supercooled droplets freeze and attach onto an exposed surface. In order for the droplets to form into ice. If you're into the science of the process, it's called deposition.

When supercooled droplets from fog freeze and attach onto an exposed surface, you get rime ice. All objects impacted need to be at 32°F or below causing the liquid to freeze instantly.

Rime ice can be classified as either hard or soft and will generally depend on the wind strength. Hard rime ice is very dense and trees appear to be flocked with the crystals. This occurs due to freezing fog when wind speeds are high, and temperatures range between 17-28°F.

Meteorologists point out that soft rime is a bit more delicate. On closer inspection you will notice individual crystal spikes. This usually happens when winds are calmer during a freezing fog.

WI DNR on wolf hunting and trapping

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service removed gray wolves from the federal endangered species list on January 4, 2021, returning management authority to state agencies. The Wisconsin DNR has successfully managed gray wolves for decades and will continue to do so in accordance with the laws of our state and the best science available. The DNR is planning for a wolf harvest season in the fall of 2021 and working towards completing a 10 year wolf management plan that will guide future management decisions for wolves in Wisconsin.

The DNR will continue to partner with USDA-Wildlife Services to address wolf conflicts in Wisconsin. If you suspect wolves in the depredation of livestock, pets or hunting dogs, or if wolves are exhibiting threatening or dangerous behavior, contact USDA-Wildlife Services staff immediately. In northern Wisconsin, call 1-800-228-1368 or 715-369-5221. In southern Wisconsin, call 1-800-433-0663 or 920-324-4514.

State Treasurer Godlewski & Kenosha Treasurer Jacobson news for homeowners

MADISON - State Treasurer Sarah Godlewski and Kenosha County Treasurer Teri Jacobson have an important reminder to Wisconsinites - Be sure to pay your property taxes on time to avoid unwanted interest and penalties. The two treasurers launched the Treasurers' Homeownership Task Force in March, and this reminder comes as part of the initiative to empower taxpayers.

"Property taxes go to support our local communities and essential services such as education, public safety, sanitation, and mental health," said State Treasurer Godlewski. "When homeowners pay their property taxes on time, they avoid unwanted interest and penalty, avoid foreclosure, and make a key investment to the community they call home."

Tax bills should be received by December 21, and payment is due on January 31, 2021. If you have not received your tax bill by December 21, contact your local treasurer to get a copy of your bill and make sure they have the correct mailing address. Review your bill when it arrives and pay either the full amount or first installment to your city, village, or town treasurer to avoid added interest to late payments. "In order to avoid additional interest and penalty, and losing the option to pay in installments, it is essential that taxpayers pay at least the full amount of their first installment by Jan. 31, 2021, to their municipal treasurer," Jacobson said. "If you are unable to pay the full amount, you should pay as much as you are able by Jan. 31, 2021, to reduce the amount you will be charged in interest and penalty."

Residents should also check to make sure they are receiving the lottery credit when reviewing their property tax bill. The credit is available to individuals are paying property tax on their primary residence.

According to the National Weather Service, hoar frost is defined as a "deposit of interlocking crystals formed by direct sublimation on objects, usually those of small diameter freely exposed to air, such as tree branches, plants, wires, poles, etc." Sublimation is the process of a solid going directly to a gas. People pack goods with dry ice so they don't get a puddle.

The development of hoar frost typically occurs on relatively clear nights when air with a dewpoint below 32° is brought to saturation by cooling. Hoar frost also needs calm air that allows those complex lacy deposits of crystals to form.

In other words, the moisture in the air skips the droplet stage and goes straight to crystallizing, similar to dew but when temperatures are below freezing.

Hoar frost derives from the old English word "hoary," meaning getting on in age. With this thought in mind, many trees, especially evergreens did present a "hair-like" appearance resembling white, feathery beards. Unfortunately warmer weather and rising winds caused the trees, powerlines and other objects to lose their wintry finery by mid-afternoon.

It's also interesting that hoar frost is mentioned several times in weather folklore. According to the Old Farmer's Almanac hoar frost on May 1st indicates that a good harvest is forthcoming. Another saying associated with hoar frost is that rain will be in the forecast six months following a morning of hoar frost.

Variant strain B.1.1.7 of SARS-CoV-2 identified in Wisconsin

On January 12, the Wisconsin Department of Health Services and laboratory partners identified a variant strain of SARS-CoV-2, the virus that causes COVID-19, in Wisconsin.

The particular variant, referred to as B.1.1.7, was first discovered circulating widely in England during November and December of 2020. Based on epidemiologic and modeling studies, researchers believe that this new strain spreads more rapidly and easily than the original strain of SARS-CoV-2. However, there is no

January is Radon Awareness Month

Did you know that about 1 in 10 homes in Wisconsin have high radon levels? Radon is a naturally occurring gas that is radioactive and can cause lung cancer. Radon can leak into your home and is common in Wisconsin. While you cannot see it or smell it, you can protect yourself from it. Testing for radon is common when buying or selling a home, but you should take action now by testing your home.

You can buy a home radon kit from local hardware stores or the Forest County Health Department for $8.00 a kit. Your first radon measurement should be made for a minimum of two days in the lowest lived in level of your home with the windows kept closed. A basement can be considered lived-in (for radon testing purposes) if it is occupied at least 7 hours per week. Otherwise the main floor is the best place to test.

No follow up is needed if your levels are less than 4 pCi/L (picocuries per liter). You should test your home again after any air sealing work, or heating/air conditioning system changes, or foundation modification. If your test results come back above the action level of 4 PCi/L, then a long term test, at least 90 days and usually 6-12 months, is recommended to gauge the home's annual radon concentration. You can call 1-888-569-7236 to get more information about longterm testing.

If your levels are 8pCi/L and above, you should do a follow up short term test immediately. If the average of the two results is greater than 4 pCi/L, you should consider fixing your home. The higher your short term test results, the more certain is that you should fix your home.

Compared to radon entering your home through the air, the risk is much lower

Tiffany Violates His Oath of Office

Once again, Rep. Tiffany has demonstrated his contempt for our Constitution and, the rule of law.

Hours after President Trump incited a violent mob to ransack our nation's capitol, Tiffany cast a vote to overturn the will of voters in Arizona and Pennsylvania and, stated he would have usurped Wisconsin's voters given the chance. This places him squarely in the Sedition Caucus, members of Congress who joined an insurrection built on lies they told their constituents. This is unacceptable. The truth is: Joe Biden won by more than 7 million votes and, despite dozens of lawsuits, not one Judge - including Trump appointees- has found evidence of consequential voter fraud.

WI Republican Rep. Glenn Grothman said this regarding Tiffany's vote to overrule the states:

"I am sure that James Madison and Alexander Hamilton are spinning in their graves. The idea that the President would be determined by a vote of Congress is both absurd and dangerous."

WI Republican Rep. Mike Gallagher said: "The idea that Congress — not the people in the states — gets to choose the president and the vice president would surprise the Framers. It would stun millions of Americans." He accused legislators objecting to Biden's victory of falsely encouraging Trump supporters to think the results could be overturned, culminating in the Capitol riot.

Both Grothman and Gallagher voted to reject the objections and affirm Biden's election. But not Tiffany, he shamefully put his own political ambition ahead of his oath of office and perpetuated Trump's false claims. He must be held accountable.

The Milwaukee Journal Sentinel has called for Tiffany and Messrs. Johnson and Fitzgerald, to resign. I agree.

If you do too, please call Tiffany's office and let him know: 202-225-3365

Felzkowski Statement on Joint Wolf Hearing

The Senate Committee on Sporting Heritage, Small Business, and Rural Issues and the Assembly Committee on Sporting Heritage held a joint informational hearing to discuss the 2021 wolf hunt and why the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) decided against an adaptive hunting season this winter.

Five minutes before the hearing the DNR notified the chairs that they would not be in attendance, but would provide written testimony – with arguments that centered on needing more time to prepare. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service first announced the removal of the gray wolves from the federal endangered species list on October 29, 2020.

Senator Felzkowski (R-Tomahawk) had the following statement in response:

"I'm extremely disappointed that the DNR blewoff this hearing and, in turn, all of the Wisconsinites who tuned in to get their questions answered. The Department had two full months to prepare for a hunt and instead, they sat on their hands. Once again, this authority was not handed back to them so they could sit around and talk about it. Authority was handed back to them so they could act to manage this growing threat and allow Wisconsin's sportsmen to engage with this emboldened predator."

Let's Focus on the Future

By Allison Allen, Ph.D., Psychologist NorthLakes Community Clinic

"Happy New Year!" These are words we have been looking forward to saying for MONTHS now. I believe it is unanimous; 2020 was one for the record books, and not in a good way. That said, you may have noticed that although 2021 is finally here...so is the virus. I realize no one really thought that we would wake up on January 1 to a covid-free world, but still. It's an underwhelming start, and we have a long winter ahead of us.

So, how do we avoid crashing when our aspirations for the shiny New Year ahead meet up with the still very real pandemic? I spend a lot of time teaching folks mindfulness skills, which is to say, how to stay more focused in the present rather than the past or future, and there is a lot to be said for that. This is one of those times, however, when a little future focus may do us some good. Cue our fancy, future oriented minds!

If you are feeling blue because we are still in the grips of this nasty virus, then my suggestion is, step one, acknowledge that reality. The fact is, we will still need to be really, really careful. We just are not out of the woods yet. That said, we have good reason to feel hopeful, and that is step two! Because while we are just now entering what could feel like a rather dark winter season, we can brighten those winter days by thinking about how great it will be to do so many of the normal, and now absolutely amazing-seeming things that have been off the table for so long, once the vaccine has had time to be fully distributed. I look forward to going to a beach and not scanning to see how many other people are doing the same. I get excited imagining bigger things, like planning a trip, and seemingly small things like sitting down in a restaurant, smiling at my server, and taking in the people around me. How amazing will that be?? And of course, being able to hug someone, or shake hands, without worrying.

Of course this all assumes a robust rollout of vaccines and good participation, but by sometime this summer that may well be realistic. I can also think ahead to next year's holiday season and feel pretty darn confident it will not be fraught with life and death decisions, as this year's has been.

The fact is, we have all learned a lot about how to maneuver around this virus, and we will need to use those skills to stay safe this winter. Zoom calls, snow shoes, and sourdough will all have their place in the months ahead, along with bonfires and binge watching. But when feeling discouraged, we can also let the future-oriented parts of our minds provide us with boosts of warm, hope-fueled energy, enough to help power us through the last, really crucial stretch of Being Careful during these cold winter months. If we do that, combining our newly acquired mad covid-dodging skills and our great human ability to picture better times ahead, then before we know it winter will be winding down, and with longer days will come a lot of the relief we are all longing for. So let's all repeat "Happy New Year" and by staying smart now really get to enjoy it then.

For Old Time's Sake

How things used to be done. Horses kept the country running for a long time. Even when the trains showed up, it was horse-drawn wagons that picked up the goods at the depot and brought them the final step to their final destination. They were still used in the woods around here into the 1960's. Henry Ford put a lot of horses out to pasture.

Worry is the interest paid on trouble before it falls due.

This photo was brought in by Dick Krawze some years back. It is a Laona fellow and the wolf he hunted down. His name is Max Kaatz. While we don't know the year that Max shot his wolf, it is interesting that we are likely going to get a chance to reduce the wolf's numbers in the not too distant future. We will have to wait and see.

evidence that the new strain causes more severe illness or increased risk of death.

"We already know that COVID-19 is easily transmitted through respiratory droplets, and with this new variant appearing to be even more infectious, taking preventative measures like wearing a mask and physically distancing are even more important," said DHS Secretarydesignee Andrea Palm.

In Wisconsin, the strain was identified through ongoing surveillance and whole genome sequencing, a routine practice since the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. All viruses, including the virus that causes COVID-19, change through mutation, and new variants of the virus are expected to occur over time.

"Mutations among viruses are very common. It's not unusual in fact, it's expected. As time goes on in the pandemic and the virus continues to replicate on a large scale, the genetic sequence of the virus will change," said Chief Medical Officer Dr. Ryan Westergaard.

DHS, the Wisconsin State Laboratory of Hygiene, and other laboratory partners regularly work together to ensure whole genome sequencing is performed on a small proportion of tests collected. This routine analysis of genetic sequence data assisted in identifying the new variant strain in Wisconsin.

Now in the second year of the COVID-19 pandemic molecular surveillance of SARS-CoV-2 will increase in importance to quickly identify and understand new variants. DHS and laboratory partners continue to analyze genetic sequence data to stop the spread of COVID-19. With emerging mutations of SARS-CoV-2, and those that may be more infectious, it is critically important to follow best public health practices, including wearing a mask, staying home, maintaining physical distance, and washing hands frequently. Snowmobilers: know before you go Contact a local club for current trail information

Although much of Wisconsin has experienced colder temperatures and accumulating snow is starting to appear in some weather forecasts, the Association of Wisconsin Snowmobile Clubs (AWSC) wants to remind snowmobilers the 25,000 miles of public snowmobile trails in Wisconsin are not open yet.

Before a trail can be opened, the ground under the snow needs to be frozen to ensure trails crossing wet areas are safe. In agricultural areas, adequate snow is necessary to protect the ground and crops the trail travels over. To ensure you know which trails are open in your c o m m u n i t y, g o t o a t a w s c. or g o r travelwisconsin.com/snowreport/snowmobile for the latest information on the county/area you're interested in riding.

After trails are opened, ride cautiously as early season trail conditions magnify possible hazards under the snow. Snowmobilers should always ride with caution and NEVER ride on trails crossing lakes or rivers that are not marked by the local snowmobile club.

The AWSC consists of over 610 snowmobile clubs from every county in Wisconsin. Community based, snowmobile clubs and their 41,000+ volunteer members are solely responsible for developing and maintaining over 25,000 miles of public snowmobile trails. Club members brush, clear, sign, and prepare the trails, along with grooming them to ensure they are smooth and safe. Annually, these volunteers work many hours in partnership with dozens of gracious landowners to ensure trail access, as most trails are on private property. Without the support of thousands of Wisconsin landowners, the trail system would not exist. Thus, riding on closed trails or traveling off a marked trail is not only dangerous - it's trespassing. Wisconsin's snowmobile program is administered by the DNR, but unique in that it is a userfunded program. In short, Snowmobilers provide the fundsthrough sled registrations and trail pass fees - to create, maintain, and sustain the largest public trail system in the nation. Additional funds for the snowmobile program come from gas tax monies snowmobilers generate. These user-generated funds help reimburse local clubs for some of the expenses they incur. The season is here, so make sure your snowmobile has a current registration and a 2020-2021 Wisconsin Trail Pass. For more information on Registration and Trail Pass requirements, go to: gowild.wi.gov Snowmobiling is not only fun, it provides millions of dollars that fuel Wisconsin's winter economic engine.

Senior Chatter Snow Removal Safety Tips

As we approach this very long Wisconsin winter, it is important to remember some tips to keep you safe when shoveling or using a snowblower to remove snow. During winter, there is always a risk of slipping and falling on ice. It is especially dangerous when that ice is hidden underneath freshly-fallen snow. Shoveling heavy snow can also cause back, shoulder, knee and other orthopedic injuries.

Additionally, shoveling or pushing a snow blower, can cause a sudden increase in blood pressure and heart rate, and the cold air can cause constriction of the blood vessel and decrease oxygen to the heart. All these work together to increase the work of the heart and can trigger a potentially fatal heart attack.

Safety tips to help prevent falls & orthopedic injuries:

See what you are shoveling/snow blowing. Make sure that your hat or scarf does not block your vision. Watch for ice patches and uneven surfaces. Avoid falls by wearing shoes or boots that have slip-resistant soles. Watch for black ice and ice under freshlyfallen snow, and "walk like a penguin" until you are sure that the surface where you are walking is not icy.

Use a shovel that is comfortable for your height and strength. Do not use a shovel that is too heavy or too long for you. Consider buying a shovel that is specially designed to prevent too much stooping. Space your hands on the tool grip to increase your leverage.

Warm up your muscles. Shoveling can be a vigorous activity. Before you begin, warm up your muscles for 10 minutes with light exercise.

When possible, push the snow instead of lifting it. If you must lift, take small amounts of snow, and lift it with your legs: Squat with your legs apart, knees bent and back straight. Lift by straightening your legs, without bending at the waist. Then walk to where you want to dump the snow; holding a shovelful of snow with your arms outstretched puts too much weight on your spine.

Do not throw the snow over your shoulder or to the side. This requires a twisting motion that stresses your back.

Safety tips to help prevent heart attacks:

Check with your doctor. Because this activity places high stress on the heart, speak with your physician first. If you have a medical condition or do not exercise regularly, consider hiring someone to remove the snow.

Talk to your doctor about an aspirin regimen or ask your doctor about taking a low dose of aspirin before you shovel.

Dress appropriately. Light, layered, water-repellent clothing provides both ventilation and insulation. It is also important to wear the appropriate head coverings, as well as mittens or gloves and thick, warm socks. Cover your mouth to help prevent breathing cold air. Take a break if you feel yourself getting too hot or too cold.

Clear snow early and often. Begin when a light covering of snow is on the ground to avoid trying to clear packed, heavy snow. However, avoid shoveling immediately after you awaken as most heart attacks occur early in the morning when blood is more prone to clotting. Wait for at least 30 minutes and warm up your muscles before starting by walking for a few minutes or marching in place.

Pace yourself. Take frequent breaks and replenish fluids to prevent dehydration. If you experience chest pain, shortness of breath or other signs of a heart attack, seek emergency care.

Do not eat a heavy meal before or soon after shoveling because blood gets diverted from the heart to the stomach and can put extra strain on the heart.

Do not drink coffee or smoke for at least one hour before or one hour after shoveling or during breaks. These are stimulants and elevate your blood pressure and heart rate.

Do not drink alcohol before or immediately after shoveling. Alcohol can increase a person's sensation of warmth and may cause you to underestimate the extra strain your body is under in the cold.

Watch for warning signs of a heart attack: lightheadedness, dizziness, being short of breath, or if you have tightness or burning in chest, neck, arms or back. If you think you are having a heart attack, call 911.

Safety tips for using a snowblower:

Never stick your hands or feet in the snow blower. If snow becomes too impacted, stop the engine and wait at least five seconds. Use a solid object to clear wet snow or debris from the chute. Beware of the recoil of the motor and blades after the machine has been turned off.

Do not leave the snow blower unattended when it is running. Shut off the engine i you must walk away from the machine.

Watch the snow blower cord. If you are operating an electric snow blower, be aware of where the power cord is at all times, so you do not trip and fall.

Add fuel before starting the snow blower. Never add fuel when the engine is running or hot. Do not operate the machine in an enclosed area.

Read the instruction manual. Prior to using a snow blower, read the instruction manual for specific safety hazards, unfamiliar features, and whenever attempting to repair or maintain the snow blower.

The Teddy Bear of The Bay at Suring Canine compassion offered by Oliver

Patients and residents at The Bay at Suring love getting a visit from Oliver, a four-legged caregiver who dispenses joy and a few licks around the facility.

Oliver is a 2-year-old Shih Tzu/Bichon dog mix, which is also known as a "Teddy Bear." He comes into the facility with her owner Tracy Prochnow, a Medication Technician who has worked at The Bay at Suring for more than 15 years.

"It's all about the unconditional love from him," Prochnow says. "Oliver makes them happy and brightens their day. He's a different face, it breaks up the routine, and they look forward to see him when he comes through the front door."

Oliver has been coming to The Bay at Suring since he was just a puppy so that Prochnow could potty train Oliver while she did her job. But what started out as workplace flexibility has turned into Oliver becoming a part of the family at the facility.

"Oliver knows the machinery that I work with, he normalcy and he makes their day."

In these challenging times, Oliver will help caregivers at The Bay at Suring share with its residents a bit of spirit.

Nicolet College Foundation encourages future and current students to apply for scholarships

The Nicolet College Foundation will accept scholarship applications from Feb. 1 to March 1 for the 2021-22 academic year at Nicolet.

The Foundation expects to award 250 scholarships ranging in value from $250 to $2,500, said Foundation Executive Director Heather Schallock.

"Scholarships are a great way to help students pay for college and we encourage anyone who plans to attend Nicolet next year to fill out the application," Schallock said. "The application process is fairly straightforward and completing the general application automatically allows students to apply for most of our scholarships at once. The Nicolet Foundation is here to assist students financially and scholarships can make a big difference in students' lives as they work their way to graduation."

Early Childhood Education student Stephanie Larson said she was highly appreciative of the scholarship she received for the current term at Nicolet.

"This couldn't have come at a better time and goes a long way in putting some positive in a rough year," Larson said.

All applications must be submitted online at nicoletcollege.edu/scholarships. The application will be available starting Feb. 1.

Nicolet scholarships are available for both new and continuing students enrolling at the college for the upcoming Fall 2021 term as well as the Spring and Summer terms of 2022. Funds are applied directly to the cost of tuition and books. New students will need to have Nicolet College credentials to log into the scholarship system, which requires scholarship applicants to apply to Nicolet College first.

Both part-time and full-time students with a cumulative grade point average of 2.5 or higher are eligible to receive scholarships.

knows when to get out of the way and doesn't get scared by some of the sounds that my equipment makes," Prochnow says.

Now Oliver is able to go around the facility on his own to visit residents and sometimes even gets a few treats from some of his friends who are residents at the facility.

Nancy Andrade, a resident at The Bay at Suring is known as the "Treat Lady." Whenever Oliver is in the center, he knows where to go to get his fix of bacon-wrapped sweet potato-flavored dog treats.

"Oliver is just cheerful, he such a nice little guy – I love him and he loves everybody," said Andrade, who over the last two years of calling The Bay at Suring her home, has watched Oliver grow up from a puppy. "I love animals and I had a dog when I lived at home."

COVID-19 visitation restrictions have not been easy for residents in Wisconsin's long-term care facilities since the pandemic began, Prochnow says that a visit from Oliver always seems to brighten up the day of the residents in The Bay at Suring.

"Family members know about Oliver and love the fact that he comes to the facility," Prochnow says. "Even the staff get excited when I bring Oliver."

"He is just the sweetest dog in the world," said Jenny Lemke, who works as the unit clerk in the facility. "He always puts a smile on my face. Our residents are always excited as soon as he walks in the room. He puts his little paws up on the bed. Oliver just gives them a sense of Schallock noted that the scholarships are available only because of the generosity of Foundation donors.

'They truly believe in the value of a college education," she said. "They see how it can improve the lives of individuals and also benefit the communities in which graduates live and work."
