Crandon Cardinal Forensics Team goes to State

Bradley Franti, Madyson Dachelet, Joey Walrath, Sarh Bauknecht, Grace McCarthy & Tyler Gumm.

Just recently, the Crandon HS Forensics Team spent the day traveling south. Once in Madison, the students toured the capitol building, stopping to enjoy the rotunda as a group of singers entertained small crowds of people. After observing the statues, courtrooms, hallways, and architecture, they headed down State Street for a late lunch.

Over in DeForest was the real focus of the tripthe Wisconsin High School State Forensics Competition. Butterflies began to fill stomachs as students from across the state gathered in newly built classrooms for their round. That's right! State competition consists of only one round, one chance. One judge makes the decision.

After their 5 p.m. round closed, the results were tallied. Freshmen Grace McCarthy and Tyler Gumm earned a Silver for their playacting performance. Cardinal Seniors Sarah Bauknecht, Joey Walrath, and Bradley Franti earned a Bronze for their playacting. Last but not least, Madyson Dachelet took home a Gold in Humorous Solo Acting. Congratulations Cardinals!

He/she is the student of whom teachers can say "This is the student that I can point to as an example for other students in my class to follow."

The students and their teachers are then invited to be guests at a banquet at which the teachers talk briefly about the students and then present them with award certificates designed by the Lions Club. History of Lakes Country Public Library: Part II

By Kathleen Marsh

From the time it officially opened in 1989, Lakes Country Public Library was a fixture in Northern Oconto County. Use of the facility increased so rapidly that six years later it had clearly outgrown its space. In 1995, a group of local citizens, many of whom had worked on the original library construction project, formed a committee to expand the building. The initiative was as successful as it was speedy, with the library being enlarged to its present size in 1996.

The 864 sq/ft addition was designed by the original architect Stanley Bye and built by the same construction company, Chuck White Builders. It primarily housed more shelf space and a small meeting room. Also added was a second mechanical room and hallway to an emergency exit. The entire project was completed with a total investment of $53,000. The 1996 expansion enabled the library to better meet the needs of an ever-expanding patron base.

As time went by, there was some moving around of portable fixtures, a fresh coat of paint; replacement of the roof; a new furnace. The library joined OWLS, the Outagamie-Waupaca and Nicolet Federated Library automated system. That resulted in a public Internet station being installed with funding from the Nicolet Federated Library System, Wisconsin's Educational Technology Board, and the Federal Library Services and Construction Act.

Within one year, there was a dramatic increase in the use of the Internet and the sharing of materials with other libraries. Courier delivery service for interlibrary

Forest County Deer Advisory Council to meet May 3

The Forest County Deer Advisory Council will meet on Tuesday, May 3 at 7:00 pm in the lower level of the Crandon Public Library. The library is located at 110 West Polk Street.

The council will review the preliminary recommendations for antlerless harvest quota as established at the March 2022 meeting. The council will also review the online public feedback for the coming 2022 deer season.

The public can also listen in by calling (888)475-4499 ID number 884 5662 4064 or click on the zoom link under the Forest County CDAC Database page, current meetings on the Wisconsin DNR website.

loans increased from once a week to three times per week and then five times per week. The demand for meeting space increased as well. Despite it being small and cramped, the meeting room was being used so much by local organizations that reservations were required.

In 1999 a T-1 telecommunications line to the facility was installed, and three additional Internet stations were added. The Town of Lakewood, grants, fundraising by the Friends of the Library, and donations from neighboring towns and private contributions paid the bill for these improvements.

Anticipating that another expansion might be needed one day, John and Collette Suminski donated a parcel of land behind the library for that purpose. Subsequent to that, another family donated a wooded lot a few miles outside Lakewood near Munger Lake. Their intention was that the parcel be sold with the proceeds designated for a third expansion. In addition, cash donations and family memorials earmarked for a future addition came in over the years. The Friends of the Library continued to raise funds with that goal in mind.

In 2014 a fiber optic cable was run to the library, increasing the number of patrons able to use the library's high-speed internet. Use of this cutting-edge technology exploded as the fiber optic cable provided the only fast, reliable, and free access to the world wide web in Northern Oconto County. The computer area was so busy that time limits had to be imposed to ensure all users had equal

Use of the library had continued to grow under Director Pam Ellingson's leadership. Additional staff was hired to provide service to the increasing number of patrons. In 2013, after 27 years of outstanding service as the Library Director, Pam retired. She was succeeded by Nicole Lowery. Nicole had previously worked for eight years at Lakewood Library and as Library Assistant at the Elementary School in Wabeno. Under Nicole's committed leadership, Lakewood Library's circulation continue to grow, reaching nearly 48,000. Demand for other kinds of services kept increasing as well.

By 2017, it became painfully obvious that the Town of Lakewood would need financial help if the Library was to continue to meet the demand for 21st Century services. In early 2018, Townsend resident Kathleen Marsh stepped forward to lead an effort to establish a joint library. She had no idea how to proceed, but she knew who did. She immediately contacted the Department of Public Instruction which oversees public libraries in Wisconsin. DPI Library Services Specialist Shannon Schultz came to the rescue, carefully guiding Marsh through the process of gathering members for a Joint Library Task Force. Representatives from the towns of Doty, Lakewood, Riverview and Townsend would meet for the next two years to draft a document that would meet DPI and State Statute requirements. A Lakes County Joint Public Library Agreement was hammered out by the Task Force which operated on a consensus basis so that all four towns would have an equal say in the matter. The historic agreement was signed by the Four Towns in 2019 and took effect on January 1, 2020. (To Be Continued)

National Prevention Week 2022 Proclamation

Substance use and mental health problems affect all communities nationwide. According to the 2020 National Survey on Drug Use and Health, an estimated 59.3 million Americans ages 12 or older used illicit drugs in the past year.[1] Nearly 61.6 million people 12 years and older reported binge drinking alcohol in the past month, nearly two thirds of adolescent Americans ages 12-17 used nicotine products in the past month, and 63.1% vaped nicotine products.1 Additionally, in 2020, 9.3 million Americans misused pain relievers in the past year.1

With commitment and support, these and other behavioral health issues can be prevented. The focus of National Prevention Week this May is to prevent substance use and promote mental health. This year's National Prevention Week theme, "Strengthen Community, Build Resilience, and Create Hope," reminds us that simple, daily acts of prevention, like helping a friend make positive choices or supporting a family member in need, can lead to healthier lives for each of us today, and stronger, happier communities, tomorrow. Taking part in prevention-related activities and conversations help raise awareness of behavioral health issues and changes lives.

That's a message we need to spread far and wide. In 2020, an estimated 28.3 million people aged 12 and older had alcohol use disorder which has increased from 2016 where there were only 15.1 million people. Additionally, 52.9 million people were diagnosed as having a mental illness in the past year, increasing from 44.7 million adults in 2016.1 The impact of mental and substance use disorders is apparent right here in our local community. We have the power to change lives by supporting those affected and taking part in local prevention efforts.

Through National Prevention Week, people become more aware and able to recognize the signs of mental health and substance use disorders. Equally important, community members of all walks of life learn what they can do to create a healthier tomorrow by helping to prevent these problems. Being a shoulder for someone to lean on, leading someone to get help for a behavioral health issue before it worsens, setting an example by staying substance-free, and other actions like this all play a role in keeping the people around us-and ourselves—healthy and safe.

We, and others across the United States, need to recognize the seriousness of behavioral health issues in our communities, the power of prevention, and the tireless efforts of those working to make a difference. The small, daily actions done by individuals, combined with the actions of families, communities, and coalitions, come together to make up the larger, bold movement of prevention. For the above reasons, I am asking the citizens of FOREST COUNTY to join me in observing National Prevention Week 2022 this May. It is the 10th anniversary.

I, Cindy Gretzinger, Chairman, do hereby proclaim May 8-14, 2022, as NATIONAL PREVENTION WEEK in FOREST COUNTY and call upon our community to observe this week with compelling programs and events that support this year's theme, "Strengthen Community, Build Resilience, and Create Hope."

SPONSOR A SENIOR 2022

As the school year winds down and Spring approaches, it is that time of year to honor our 2022 Crandon High School graduates. One way we do that is through our now annual tradition of "Sponsor a Senior," in which we hang senior banners throughout downtown Crandon. We have had great success with this project in the past, and we hope to continue it for years to come.

The banners will cost $35 each. If you are interested in donating to the "Sponsor a Senior 2021" project, you can donate toward a specific senior, or you can donate toward the overall project to help offset the cost of the banners. You can donate any amount of money that you feel comfortable with, and any donations are greatly appreciated as this is a privately funded project.

We are hoping to gather all senior portraits and donations by April 29th so that there is ample time for the production of banners as well as getting them hung downtown well before graduation day on Saturday, May

If you have any questions concerning our Sponsorship Opportunity, feel free to contact Terri Palubicki at 715-499-1068. If you would like to Sponsor a Senior by providing a donation, please make checks made payable to Terri Palubicki and mail to: 10484 Bocek Lane Argonne, WI 54511. Thank you for your

Immunizations: The Greatest Defense World Immunization Week encourages vaccinations for all ages

The Covid-19 pandemic has led to a disruption in childhood wellness checkups and vaccinations. The World Health Organization reported that 23 million children missed out on basic vaccines in 2020 worldwide, and Blue Cross Blue Shield estimates about 9 million doses may have been missed in the US alone.

The billions of vaccine doses safely administered in the US for decades have saved countless lives and generations from several dangerous and deadly diseases, according to the National Foundation for Infectious Diseases (NFID).

Immunizations, also referred to as vaccinations, are the greatest defense we have against deadly viruses. From smallpox to polio, those often-fatal diseases were virtually eliminated, and some made extinct due to vaccinations. Yet because vaccines have been so effective at removing threats, it's sometimes easy to forget and difficult to appreciate how significant they have been to the public.

"Humans are very bad at measuring risk. If we don't see a lot of people dying from something we don't think it's a big deal or something to take seriously. Vaccines have saved countless lives, and we owe it to one another to keep, not only the people around us safe, but also future generations," says Dr. Sonal Chandratre, Regional Medical Director and Pediatric Endocrinologist at Aspirus Stevens Point Hospital.

The NFID gives five reasons to get vaccinated and stay current with immunizations.

- Vaccine-preventable diseases have not gone away.
- The viruses and bacteria that cause illness and death still exist and can be passed on to those who are not protected by vaccines. While many diseases are not common in the US, global travel makes it easy for diseases to spread.
- Vaccines keep people healthy. When vaccines are skipped, it leaves individuals vulnerable to illnesses such as shingles, pneumococcal disease, flu, and HPV and hepatitis B, both leading causes of cancer.
- Vaccinations mean the difference between life and death Vaccine-preventable infections can be deadly. Every year in the US, prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, approximately 50,000 adults died from vaccine-preventable diseases.
- · Vaccines are safe. The US has a robust approval process to ensure that all licensed vaccines are safe. Potential side effects associated with vaccines are uncommon and much less severe than the diseases they prevent.
- Young and healthy people can get very sick too. Infants and older adults are at increased risk for serious infections and complications, but vaccine-preventable diseases can strike anyone. For those that are young and healthy, getting vaccinated can help those stay that way.

National World Immunization Week (April 24-30) aims to highlight the collective action needed for everyone all around the world to use vaccines to protect people of all ages against diseases.

For more information about vaccine-preventable diseases and how you can protect yourself and your loved ones, visit www.nfid.org and talk to your primary to make sure you're up-to-date with all current vaccinations.

To the Forest/ Oconto County Dems,

Patriotic American here! What do I want for America and Wisconsin? An educational system that does not INDOCTRINATE our young children! Fully FUNDED police departments and when they do their job, prosecutors who actually prosecute. Crime in America is out of control! Close the southern border. Besides the MILLIONS of illegal immigrants enough fentanyl crossed the border to kill every American!

Still nothing in common

Obviously, there were plenty of spaces for new houses to be built, including in the fenced off farm field in the middle of the photo. What is to be Hwy 8 stretches across the photo, but the vehicle traffic seems to be light. It is likely that a closer study would show that many of the houses shown in this photo are still in use.

You know the old saying; "In spring a young man's thoughts turn to baseball." These guys were photographed by the side of Lynn Paul's grocery store in the early thirties. This is now the chiropractor's office in Crandon.

Only two of these guys are known. The tall kid is Donald "Bud" Christensen, and the kid on his left is Jimmy Paul. Bud went on to manage the Clean Towel plant in Appleton. Jimmy Paul, unfortunately, was the tail gunner on a B-24 bomber in World War II. The plane went down in the Aegean Sea, and presumable Jimmy is still at his station in the rear gunnery position.

When heartburn means trouble

Here comes that old familiar feeling. The irritating pain of heartburn. You take some medicine and the burning subsides—until the next time.

Even though it's easy to pop another antacid, ongoing heartburn shouldn't be taken lightly. Heartburn that isn't treated could lead to cancer of the esophagus.

Heartburn is a burning sensation in your chest or throat that happens when stomach acid backs up into the esophagus, the tube that connects the mouth and stomach. There is a muscle between the stomach and esophagus that usually prevents acid backup, but if the muscle is weak, the acid can go the wrong way.

Sometimes heartburn pain is so bad, it's mistaken for a heart attack.

Many things can make heartburn worse, according to the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP), including:

- Consuming spicy or fatty foods, carbonated drinks, chocolate, regular or decaffeinated coffee, caffeinated drinks, tomato products, mints, peppermint, or citrus fruits or juices
- Being overweight
- Smoking
- Drinking alcohol
- · Lying down soon after eating a meal
- Wearing tight clothes
- Diseases or medications that weaken the muscle between the stomach and esophagus

Heartburn that occurs frequently may be a sign of gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD), according to the National Institute of Diabetes and Digestive and Kidney Diseases.

GERD can cause symptoms other than heartburn, including hoarseness, sore throat, trouble swallowing, dry cough and bad breath.

When you have GERD, the cells in your esophagus are regularly irritated by stomach acid. Over time, this may cause the cells that are supposed to line the esophagus to be replaced with cells similar to those that line the small intestine. This condition is called Barrett's esophagus.

According to Aspirus Medical Oncologist Dr. Justin Asquith, "Once the cells in your esophagus have changed, you are at risk for cancer of the esophagus-even if you get your heartburn under control. If you have Barrett's esophagus, you should have your doctor monitor for changes that could be an early indication of cancer."

Asquith added, "You also need to be aware of the symptoms of cancer of the esophagus. They can include:

- difficult or painful swallowing
- chest pain
- weight loss
- vomiting
- bleeding into the esophagus, which may cause black stools and can lead to anemia
- · hoarseness or chronic cough.

You should talk to your doctor right away if you have any of these symptoms." What you can do?

There are things that may control heartburn before it leads to Barrett's esophagus. According to the AAFP, the following lifestyle changes can help you control heartburn:

Quit smoking

- Avoid foods that cause heartburn and don't overeat
- · Lose weight if you are overweight
- Don't wear tight clothes
- Wait at least two hours after eating before you lie down

• Raise the head of your bed 6 to 9 inches – you can use blocks under the legs of the bed

"It's important to talk to your doctor if you have frequent heartburn or have been taking antacids for more than three weeks," said Asquith. "There may be prescription medicines that work better for you than over-the-counter antacids."

Advances in DNA Research Saving Lives

Advances in DNA technology are changing our daily lives from solving decades-old crime investigations to diagnosing and treating cancer.

National DNA Day is celebrated annually on April 25 to commemorate two major discoveries in genetics: the discovery of the double helix and the completion of the Human Genome Project.

Medical professionals are increasingly able to detect cancers by a blood sample.

Aspirus offers genetic counseling services that can help you determine your own personal inherited health risks, or those of other family members, and learn how personalized medicine can impact your health.

"Advances in DNA sequencing technology are leading to a new understanding of cancer and new ways for diagnosing and treating many types of cancer," says Victoria Ballard, Aspirus Genetic Counselor.

Cancer is a group of genetic diseases that result from changes in the genome of cells in the body, leading them to grow uncontrollably. These changes involve DNA mutations in the genome.

Our cells are constantly finding and fixing mutations that occur in our genome as the cells divide over and over again. But on rare occasions, some mutations slip through our cells' repair machinery, and those mutations can lead to cancer.

'The Human Genome Project has allowed us to establish what "normal" usually looks like for a human genome, so that we can now tell when changes in our genome have taken place that lead to cancer," says

An Aspirus genetic counselor will help you:

- Find your chance of getting certain diseases
- Decide if a genetic test is right for you
- · Learn how knowing your genetic makeup could help you with disease prevention or management so you can make more informed health care decisions.

Call Aspirus with questions. A referral from your provider is needed for a visit with a genetic counselor.

To learn more or for an appointment call 715-847-0450 or 844-212-4556, or email Genetics@aspirus.org.

Share your turkey hunting experience

The Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources (DNR) encourages hunters to share their turkey hunting experience with friends and family members this season by bringing someone new along for the hunt.

Hunting is a life skill that provides a unique and meaningful connection to Wisconsin's wildlife and the outdoors. For those who don't plan to hunt, consider tagging along with someone who is. Spending a day in the woods this spring during turkey hunting season provides an excellent opportunity to view Wisconsin's wildlife and understand and appreciate the hunters' passion for pursuing the elusive wild turkey.

Knowing turkey hunting techniques, season dates, regulations and safety standards can help foster safe practices while enjoying Wisconsin's wild places this spring. You may decide to give turkey hunting a try next

The DNR offers a variety of pathways to help introduce people to turkey hunting. Prospective hunters can participate in a Learn to Hunt program led by a qualified mentor. Additionally, the DNR's Mentored Hunting program allows novices of any age to hunt within an arm's reach of a licensed hunter over 18.

Before taking someone hunting, help them prepare by providing the following resources and tips:

- Read the Wisconsin Turkey Hunter's Guide
- · Read about turkey hunting season dates, regulations and more at the DNR's Turkey Hunting and Management webpage
- Take a Hunter Education class
- Check out the Turkey Hunting Access program and other lands open to public hunting
- · See what licenses are required for turkey hunting
- Mark your calendar for Dec. 10 to apply for a spring 2023 early spring turkey season
- · Learn what remaining turkey harvest authorizations may be available for the late 2022 spring turkey seasons.

Understanding and appreciating turkey hunting can come at any time or place - always remember to reflect a positive image of the hunting community and include those interested in learning more.

minimum standards to safeguard the water quality, fish and wildlife habitat and scenic beauty of lakes and rivers. Provisions included minimum lot sizes, building setbacks from the water's edge, and standards for amounts of impervious surfaces (such as roofs and driveways) that increase runoff.

Meanwhile, counties could make their shoreland zoning rules more protective than the state standards if they saw fit; many counties did so. Key management practices included controlling development density and creating natural buffer strips at the water's edge.

Then came the state budget process of 2015. In July, the Joint Finance Committee added a provision to the biennial budget bill forbidding counties from enacting zoning rules more restrictive than NR115. Traditionally, changes of this size are considered over weeks of open debate. Instead, this law was added to the budget at the last minute, outside normal legislative channels, leaving no chance for public discussion. Called Act 55, it was later signed into law with the budget bill. The impacts could be profound:

- · The one-size-fits-all regulation ignored vast difference in counties' lake and river resources.
- The law took away local control of shoreland development.
- · It forced counties that already had more protective zoning rules to abandon them in favor of state minimum standards. That negated years of effort and overruled the wishes of local officials and citizens. Lake protections such as vegetative buffers, minimum frontages and lot sizes, setbacks, runoff mitigation, shoreland lighting, and others were severely weakened.
- · Northern Wisconsin counties were hurt the most because our lakes and rivers are essential to quality of life and the backbone of a multi-million-dollar tourism industry.

Act 55 severely undermined local control and water-quality protection. It serves narrow interests for short-term gains. It could result in serious and lasting damage to the water resources Wisconsin residents hold dear.

In March 2022, Governor Evers signed Senate Bill 867 into law, which was championed by Senator Mary Felzkowski (R-Tomahawk). This bill, which passed through the legislature with strong bipartisan support, makes changes to shoreland zoning laws regarding viewing corridors and bridge construction.

Viewing corridors for lake-front property, under current statute, are permitted to be 35ft for every 100ft of shoreline frontage. The purpose of this statute was to allow land owners to have a beautiful view of the lake they are residing on, while requiring that a vegetative buffer zone be maintained as well. Due to the unclear language of the statute, counties asked for clarification, as the current interpretation of the law requires at least 100ft of shoreline before a viewing corridor is allowed. This bill allows a riparian landowner to create an access and viewing corridor that is 35% of their shoreline or 10ft, whichever is greater.

"One of the greatest natural resources we have in Wisconsin are the thousands of lakes spread throughout the state. These lakes provide prime locations for homes and cabins, where it's only natural to want a view of the tranquil waters you live on. This commonsense, bipartisan bill provides clarity in our laws, and protects the rights of the landowner to enjoy their property to the fullest."

This bill also adds bridges that have received a permit from the DNR to the list of structures that may be built within the 75-foot shoreland zoning setback area putting county and local bridges on the level as state bridges, which are already exempt.

Mental health crisis training exercise at Nicolet College enhances skills

Oftentimes it starts with a call to 911. Someone is experiencing an emergency and is need of help - fast.

The call frequently sets off a chain of events where individuals from several different professions need to work together effectively and efficiently.

That was the basis of a training exercise recently at Nicolet College where students from several different academic areas had to work together to help an individual having a staged emergency.

In all, about 60 individuals participated in or observed the exercise, including students and instructors from the college's Criminal Justice, Emergency Medical Services, Nursing, Human Services, and Substance Use Disorder Counselor programs. Students from Rhinelander High School's Raise Your Voice Club, which focuses on advocacy for mental health issues, also attended.

Funding for the mental health simulation was provided by the Wisconsin Northern Highland Area Health Education Center.

"Students from the participating academic programs don't really get to interact that much when they are on campus, so we wanted to create an exercise where they all had to work together in a professional capacity," said Nicolet Nursing Instructor Dilya St. Louis, who led the coordination of the simulation.

"After these students graduate and start their careers, it will be common for them to work with others from different professions. We wanted to give them that experience, to interact with each other and for all of them to practice the specialized skills they've learned in Nicolet labs and classrooms."

The training scenario started with a call to 911 to alert authorities to man acting strangely on campus.

Criminal Justice students responded to the scene to assess the situation and make initial contact with the individual in distress. After determining the individual was suicidal, armed with a knife, and intoxicated on alcohol and prescription drugs, the students responded by deescalating the situation, removing the knife, and safely securing the scene for EMS students to begin providing

After stabilizing the now-patient, they transported him by ambulance to "Nicolet Hospital" in the Lakeside Center where Nicolet Nursing students took over providing care. The simulation ended after Human Services, and Substance Use Disorder Counselor students and local professionals conducted their evaluation and determined a long-term care plan.

"At each stage of the scenario students from one academic program had to coordinate and communicate with students from a different program each time the patient went to the next stage of the scenario," St. Louis

"Over the years we've noticed that while the students have solid technical skills, there can be a skills gap in effective communication with others. We wanted to put them in a situation where they had to communicate with people outside of their profession, and I have to say they all did great. It got them out of their comfort zone and they learned new skills."

St. Louis added that it also helped get students a little more comfortable about having difficult conversations with patients.

"It can be difficult asking a patient if they were planning to commit suicide, if they wanted to kill themselves," St. Louis said. "But that's a very important piece of information to know in order to get them the best and most appropriate care possible."

Second-semester Nursing student Michael Giudilli observed the entire exercise.

"Without a doubt it was an incredibly impactful experience for everyone involved," he said.

"What really stood out is how critically important effective communication is in situations like this and on so many different levels. It helps everyone respond appropriately to get to a positive outcome for the patient.

The Wisconsin Northern Highland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) brought the idea for a rural simulation experience to Nicolet College in 2021. AHEC and Nicolet College partnered on developing the curriculum for the program, including designing it as a multi-disciplinary team-based approach focusing on communication, and as an introduction to the social determinants of health.

For Old Time's Sake

What school is this? We wish we knew. This is an early photo of the Crandon area. Grace Ross is the teacher. She was the wife of Matt Ross, the undertaker. She was the daughter of Sam Shaw, Crandon's early promoter. While some of the names are cut off, they are a cross section of early families to the area, including: Ritter, Gifford, Webb, Lambie, Walker and Ramsdell.

How many of these kids grew up and stayed in Forest County to help build the place? It is hard to say, but the names are familiar, so some members of the family must have been in the area in the decades to come.

Nicolet Digital Marketing certificate to meet needs of Northwoods businesses

Nicolet College has launched a new Digital Marketing certificate that's a desirable credential by itself and also serves as a potent value-added skill set for just about anyone currently working in a business setting.

That's according to Nicolet College Dean of Business and Entrepreneurship Ellen

"I think you would be hard pressed to find a successful business that didn't have at least some sort of digital presence," Mathein said.

"The skills people learn in this program really help them take digital marketing to a higher level. Whether it's creating a broad-based social media marketing campaign or advancing search engine optimization to make a website appear higher up in a browser search, all are essential components running a thriving business these days."

The nine-credit certificate consists of three classes: Digital Marketing Fundamentals, Social Media and Digital Content Marketing, and Digital Advertising and Analytics.

Student Marisue Drumm had had been working in marketing for many years when the day came she realized she needed to know more about the digital marketing world.

"The program at Nicolet has been absolutely fantastic," Drumm said.

"It's very hands-on. You create all of the components of a plan and work on all of the major platforms, Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, LinkedIn. It's just been a really good experience for me and I can't recommend the program highly enough."

To help create the curriculum, Nicolet surveyed nearly 40 different Northwoods businesses to identify the exact skills these businesses needed to be effective in the digital marketing world.

"We then customized the curriculum to match up precisely with the skills that are in such high demand in workplaces across the Northwoods," Mathein said. "Whether an individual is looking to work solely in digital marketing, or make this a value-added skill set to already existing business experience, people will have the digital marketing skills they need to be more valuable and successful in their careers."

Mathein noted that the coursework is delivered in the high-flexible Competency-Based Education (CBE) format, which allows students to complete all required modules at their own pace and finish the coursework by the end of the given term.

The certificate program also offers numerous start dates throughout the year so students can begin their studies largely whenever they are ready.

Nicolet also partnered with the widely-respected Digital Marketing Institute to develop the curriculum at Nicolet. Based in Dublin, Ireland, the institute is one of the premier marketing accreditation agencies serving a global market.

Upon completing the Nicolet certificate, students can earn internationally-recognized certification from the Digital Marketing Institute (DMI) and the American Marketing Association (AMA).
