Candidate Spotlight

Anyone seeking political office is invited and encouraged to announce their candidacy in the Candidate Spotlight. It is an opportunity to tell the voters why you are running, goals if elected, etc. It is not a forum for bashing an opponent, and there is no charge.

Lisa Kalata Candidate for Forest County Clerk

My name is Lisa Kalata and I am running for Forest County Clerk. I have worked for Forest County for ten years. During that time I have served as the Deputy County Clerk for over sixyears and am currently the Deputy County Treasurer. Prior to working for Forest County, I served as the Laona Town Clerk and Laona Town Treasurer for two and three years respectively. Prior to coming to work for Forest County, I worked for Braun, Preboske & Brettingen, S.C. accounting office for four years. I have managed a small bookkeeping business of my own for the past 15 years. I sit on a committee serving the residents in the Town of Lincoln. In 1992, I received an Associate's Degree in accounting from Northeast Wisconsin Technical College. Along with my degree, I have over 19 years experience in the accounting field. My education, knowledge and experience are what I feel sets me apart from my opponent.

My husband Tim and I have been residents of Forest County our entire lives. We take great pride in our County and in being a part of our close knit community. We have been blessed with two sons and feel fortunate to be able to raise them in such a wonderful county. My family and I are members of the Argonne United Methodist Church where I have been a Sunday school teacher and youth group leader for over 8 years. I serve as the Secretary/Treasurer for Forest County Little League and help my husband coach the Argonne Giants Little League team. We are very involved with the Crandon Youth Wrestling program and are members of the Padus Gun Club. Tim and I have also successfully owned and operated Tim Kalata Logging for 17 years.

I believe my education, professionalism, proficiency and over 19 years of experience in the accounting field not only give me the qualities to be Clerk, but more importantly, they would allow me to excel at serving the citizens of Forest County. I feel the people of Forest County deserve a hard working Clerk, and I am willing to work hard for you. Allow me to earn your support. I look forward to meeting each of you in our county and I would appreciate your support in the upcoming primary election on August 14, 2012.

RGS Testifies in Washington to Promote Wildlife Habitat Management on National Forests

Submitted by RGS

Ruffed Grouse Society Wildlife Biologist Gary Zimmer appeared on March 24th before the House of Representatives Subcommittee on Conservation, Energy and Forestry in Washington D.C. The Subcommittee Hearing addressed challenges and opportunities for resource management on National Forests.

The hearing was called by Subcommittee Chairman Glenn Thompson (R-PA) who stated, "The health of our national forests is an issue of vital importance for rural America. Not only are our national forests a source of immense natural beauty, but they provide us with natural resources, recreation opportunities, wildlife habitat, and serve as economic engines for local communities."

"The Forest Service should always consider the multiple uses of our national forestland including timber production, habitat preservation, natural resource management and recreation and ensure local economic development and environmental protections work in harmony, instead of in competition, with each other," said Ranking Member Tim Holden (D-PA).

Zimmer testified on the impacts that a reduction in forest management activities on our national forests have had on wildlife populations. Zimmer said, "Periodic forest disturbance is essential to maintain healthy forest ecosystems. In order to maintain the full array of forest wildlife, a landscape must support the full array of forest habitats forests of various types and various ages."

"Today, active forest management through the

The Wolf River Tourism Conference May 16 & 17

Log drive days on the Wolf Circa 1890. This photo was taken by Kingsbury, an Antigo photographer who recorded life and events throughout northern Wisconsin

While driving down Wisconsin Highway 55, you may come upon a forest clearing where water flows with a primordial purity, saddled on both sides by glacial rocky shores, with whitewater rapids nearby: The pristine Wolf River. Besides its intrinsic beauty and recreational privileges, which draws visitors from near and afar, the Wolf River is a vital resource in an intertwining ecological system comprised of countless wildlife, in company with many human residents that draw upon the river for sustenance.

Protecting this vital resource from external environmental hazards, so that current and future visitors would appreciate coming back, at best necessitates collaboration on a local and regional level, encompassing dialogue and further action.

The 2012 Northern Wisconsin Wolf River Tourism Conference offers this, especially where area businesses can discuss ways to work together in promoting sustainable business practices that protect the Wolf River area, serving as a value-added tool to draw visitors. The conference is May 16th-17th, 2012 at Mole Lake Casino Conference Center.

For more information, including registering for the conference via the Internet, visit www.wolfriverbyway.org, or email info@wolfriverbyway.org, or phone 715.892.3109.

use of commercial timber harvest provides the only realistic opportunity to maintain the range of forest habitats needed to sustain wildlife diversity," Zimmer declared. "Thick, young forest habitat provides protective cover from predators for many wildlife species that are being negatively impacted by a decline in forest management," he added.

In his testimony Zimmer highlighted species like the Federally Endangered Kirtland's warbler, candidate species New England cottontail rabbit, and over 40 species of songbird in the Eastern United States that are considered dependent on young forest habitats. The later list includes the golden-winged warbler, a species recently petitioned for federal listing under the Endangered Species Act. Zimmer stated, "Wildlife that rely upon young forest habitats also include the ruffed grouse and the American woodcock, two important game species pursued by over one million sportsmen and women each year in North America."

National forests and other public forest lands play a critical role in the conservation of wildlife dependent on young forest habitats. Zimmer declared, "Only through a balanced approach to forest stewardship, an approach that recognizes the ecological necessity of periodic disturbance, today imparted primarily through commercial forest management, can the needs of our forest wildlife resources be adequately addressed."

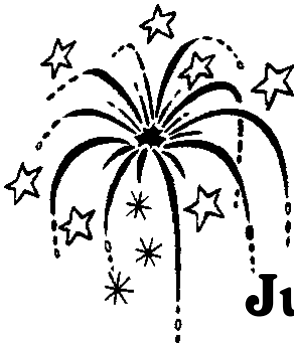

Zimmer continued, "Well-intended laws and regulations including the National Forest Management Act and the National Environmental Policy Act have guided the management of our national forests for many decades but have been used by some to strangle the agency. We must reduce the ability of groups or individuals to tie up habitat management activities for years and years at little cost to them, but at a very high cost to those that live and work in the vicinity of the national forests and to the taxpayers of this great nation."

Zimmer concluded, "These forests provide some of the last opportunities to maintain essential young forest habitat as an important part of the biodiversity of our national forests and meet the social and economic demands of the public."

In Response to Del Baumgartner--

Dear Editor,

This is a response to a recent publication by Mr. Del Baumgartner, who resides in the Town and is on the payroll of the Town and its Citizens, as the Zoning Administrator. I write on behalf of myself, my fellow Citizens who have joined or are supporters of The Town of Lincoln Oversight Committee, and those Citizens who, through us, are becoming more aware of their government and its dealings, whether or not they have yet found their voices and their votes.

Mr. Baumgartner, those who paid close attention to this process know that the expressed dream of Chairwoman Black was to build, at public expense, a very large Community Center. Initially, her vision was to accommodate wedding celebrations of up to 300 people. Her challenge was that the dream had to survive the scrutiny of the Citizens. Because the Town Voters have, for many years, chosen to trust and ignore the functions of their elected Town Board, it would have appeared that all she had to do was assemble a small group of her supporters whom she could, as Chairwoman, trust to follow along with her vision. That was swiftly accomplished. They are called the Building Committee.

But, the Citizens began to wake up to what was happening. They noticed that there had been no public discussion of what our Town needs might be to continue to provide basic town services, which consists of maintaining our town roads and town refuse disposal. There had been no survey of the views of the Citizens, nor even public discussion of whether the People wanted to authorize expanding the Town Government's basic services to include wedding halls, etc. Many concluded that it was preposterous for the Chairwoman, the Board and a small group of hand selected insiders to assume for themselves the authority to make such fundamental, risky and costly changes on behalf of the Citizens. In fact, a growing number of Citizens are so offended by their actions as to believe that our local government needs to be swept away and a completely new set of folks, more responsive to the Town Citizens, installed in its place.

Mr. Baumgartner, your comments are welcome, in this process. After all, in addition to working for the People, you are also a citizen, just like we are. We understand that you were oblivious, to the Committee's plan to, for instance, build five municipal offices into the proposed building. And, its okay for you to not have figured out that one of the Committee's plans was projected to cost the taxpayers about $1,500,000.00. Your disagreement with our phraseology regarding seating is fine. We even sympathize with those in government being burdened with gratuitously storing public records on their computers or on paper. We feel that something needs to be done about that and we will help.

But, would you care to clarify the tone and meaning of the closing paragraph of your letter? What was meant there? It has kind of an ominous sound to it. We know you hold a little bit of power, given you by the Town, because of your duties as Zoning Administrator. But, we certainly hope you did not mean to subtly convey that you or the Town might use governmental power in any way that might negatively impact any one of us because we chose, individually or collectively, to speak out about the conduct of local governmental affairs. We hope that you did not mean, through thinly veiled threat or otherwise, to curtail or stultify the healthy and free expression of thought by the same citizens who are responsible for electing your bosses and paying your wages. Any such threat or act, taken against any local Citizen, even vaguely related to this interaction between Government and the People, would violate our basic principles as well as the conscience of the people of this Town.

Thomas Jefferson said long ago, Mr. Baumgartner, “ When the People fear their Government, you have tyranny. When the Government fear the People, you have democracy”. It is well to remember that the People of the Town of Lincoln intend to live in a democracy.

Town of Lincoln-Time to hit the reset button

It's my understanding that the town of Lincoln elected officials started the process of the new community center with the idea of researching costs of construction. After which, they will present their findings to the electorates for approval or disapproval.

It seems to me that this process has taken an excruciatingly long time and has the taxpayers of the town of Lincoln quite confused about the town board and building committee direction.

One would think the town board would have presented a preliminary plan and cost for consideration before proceeding with RFP's for design and management of a project not approved by the electors.

In addition, on what authority does the building committee rely in determining the site of the proposed structure? Where does the building committee find its authority to authorize chairperson Black to spend money on the project?

Much time, energy and angst has been expended by parties on all sides of this situation. It's my opinion that the township has put the cart before the horse, and it's in everyone's best interest to hit the reset button and start over with a clearer vision, open communication, and input from the taxpayers whose money is being spent.

In Loving Memory of Millie (Champine) Kurth
who went to Heaven on April 9th, 2007

Dear Mom and Grandma,

It's been five years that you are gone,

Still the emptiness lingers on.

We miss you when the dawn breaks day.

We remember all your neat little ways.

We miss you when the sky is cloudy or clear.

Our memories of you are always in our hearts, so close, so dear.

Some may forget you now that you are gone,

We will always remember you no matter how long.

We miss you more today than yesterday,

Now we know it will always be that way.

Thank you for the occasional dimes,

We know it is your way of giving us a sign.

The smell of lilacs that often fill the night,

It's from you, even tho you're not visible to sight.

Your presence is felt often and near,

Today, tomorrow and always we hold so very dear.

We love & miss you,

Posie, Kay, Grandchildren, relatives & friends

All of the motions last night will be reviewed and are not binding until the legality of the motions are proved. In previous meetings, it has been agreed that something needs to be done so that there is adequate room for meetings, elections and other events of that nature. There is nothing finalized or any decisions made about building any type of building at the present time. The citizens of the Town of Lincoln will have the final decision when one is needed. A special meeting of the electors will need to take place. Every citizen that is eligible to vote will have that right. The building committee will present options to the citizens and the citizens will decide what to do. They will also have the decision to do nothing at that time by voting no.

GEORGE by Mark Szorady

Interestingly enough, looking at a picture of a yawning mouth does not make a person yawn. But looking at the eyes of a yawner does. Provine believes that yawning together helped synchronize our tribes, when we were tired, we yawned, and everyone got the idea that it was time to go to bed. The question is, why is this the most frequently asked reader question? Maybe curiosity is contagious, too.

S-L-E-E-P Sense & Safety

Nodding off on the job jeopardizes not only your safety, but also the safety of your co-workers. Getting a good night's sleep is important, so follow these strategies:

See your health care provider if you have trouble sleeping. It could be a symptom of something more serious.

Lose weight. Studies have shown that people who are overweight often have sleep apnea, a sleep-related breathing disorder that leads people to repeatedly stop breathing during sleep. This condition can lead to serious health problems.

Exercise at least 30 minutes during the day, preferably in the morning. Exercising in the evening - even as much as six hours before your bedtime - may cause fragmented sleep.

Eliminate energy drinks, caffeine and alcohol during the evening. All of these can lead to disrupted sleep.

Pursue a consistent sleep schedule. Go to sleep and wake up at the same times every day, even on weekends. Develop a bedtime routine that includes time to unwind before going to bed.

Whether or not you believe in man-induced global warming, the info on pollen allergies may be interesting to those with allergies.

U.S. heat 'unprecedented, 7,000 records set or tied

By Deborah Zabarenko | Reuters – Sat 24 Mar, 2012

An "unprecedented" March heat wave in much of the continental United States has set or tied more than 7,000 high temperature records, and signals a warming climate, health and weather experts said on Friday.

While natural climate variability plays a major role, it is the addition of human-spurred climate change that makes this particular hot spell extraordinary, the scientists said in a telephone and web briefing.

"This heat wave is essentially unprecedented," said Heidi Cullen of the nonprofit science and communication organization Climate Central. "It's hard to grasp how massive and significant this is."

Since March 12, more than 7,000 high temperature records have been equaled or exceeded, Cullen said, citing figures from the U.S. National Climatic Data Center (http://webcache.googleusercontent.com/search?q=cache:GC_wmFORLZsJ:www.ncdc.noaa.gov/extremes/records/+us+records+ncdc&cd=1&hl=en&ct=clnk&gl=us).

These records include daytime high temperatures and record-high low temperatures overnight, which in some cases are higher than previous record highs for the day, Cullen said.

"When low temperatures are breaking previous record highs, that's when you see this is incredibly special," she said.

Cullen noted that this warmth is part of a trend that is pushing the spring season earlier by an average of three days in the contiguous 48 U.S. states.

The date of first leafing -- the day when buds burst open -- has moved forward from March 20, where it was during the 30-year period from 1951 to 1980, to March 17, where it has been for the period from 1981 to 2010.

JUICING POLLEN WITH CARBON DIOXIDE

An online report (<http://climatecentral.org>) accompanying the briefing shows that some states have an even earlier spring, with Montana, Washington state, Oregon, Nevada, Utah and Connecticut seeing spring arrive five days or more ahead of the previous average.

This early wake-up call for plants and animals can have disastrous health consequences, especially for children, said Dr. Aaron Bernstein of the Center for Health and the Global Environment at Harvard Medical School.

Pollen counts are breaking records around the United States, Bernstein said, noting that allergies cost the U.S. economy between $6 billion and $12 billion annually.

The early heat stimulates growth in plants and the pollen season has gotten longer by one to two weeks over the last half-century, while the higher levels of carbon dioxide in the air stimulate pollen production in highly allergenic plants like ragweed, Bernstein said.

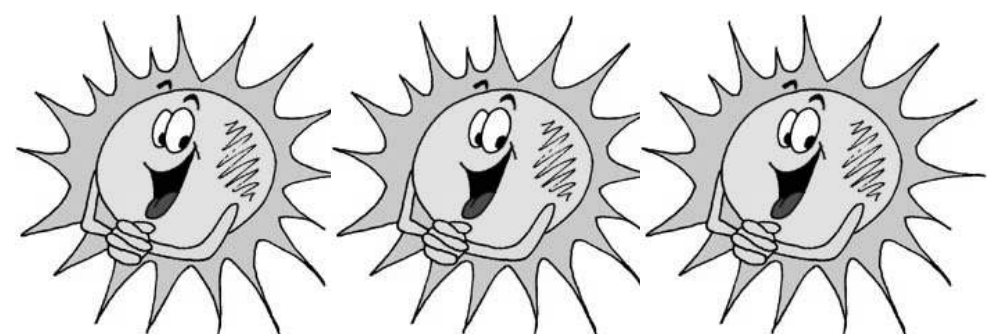

The rates of sensitization to pollen in the United States are also on the rise, he said, which means people who never suffered from pollen-related allergies may feel them now.

"As we juice these plants with carbon dioxide, we're going to make people have greater allergy symptoms," Bernstein said.

"Most likely the weird weather arises from natural variation on top of a warming climate," said Michael Oppenheimer, a geoscientist at Princeton and a veteran participant in the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change. "What we're seeing now is not surprising in the greenhouse world ... It's just the beginning of our experience with the new atmosphere."

Oppenheimer was a lead author of the panel's path-breaking 2007 report that analyzed research by hundreds of scientists and found there was a 90 percent probability that climate change is occurring and human activities contribute to it.

That report projected an increase in heat waves, droughts, floods, severe storms and extreme temperatures as a result of human-spurred global warming, caused in part by rising emissions of greenhouse gases, including carbon dioxide emitted by fossil fuel burning.

ORV Park in Forest County?

Submitted by Forest County Economic Development Partnership

For many years there has been discussion of development of an Off-Road Vehicle (ORV) Park or Motorized Recreation Area (MRA) in the State of Wisconsin. In March of 2006 the Wisconsin Department of Natural Resources board passed a resolution directing the Department to develop a public involvement plan and a concept plan for one or more motorized recreation areas in the State. There have been discussions about locating Parks in other counties. The Wisconsin Off-Road Vehicle Park Inc. (WORVPI) based in Forest County has ordered a feasibility study to determine whether to locate one within Forest County. Location and size of the Park are all within the scope of the study, however, the goal would be to develop a Park that is self-sustaining and one that would provide tremendous benefit to existing Forest County businesses.

A great place to learn more about this concept will take place at a workshop being offered at the Mole Lake Conference Center on Friday, April 13 at 8:00 a.m. The Wisconsin Off-Highway Vehicle Association will be offering the workshop which will focus on development of

“Cutting waste, reducing energy use and operating more sustainably translates to less pollution and lower utility bills for businesses across the country,” said Nancy Sutley, Chair of the White House Council on Environmental Quality. “The leaders we’ve selected as Champions of Change are proving that sustainable practices work for companies’ bottom lines, and work for the health of American communities.”

The Champions of Change program was created as a part of President Obama’s Winning the Future initiative. Each week, a different sector is highlighted and groups of Champions, ranging from educators to entrepreneurs to community leaders, are recognized for the work they are doing to serve and strengthen their communities.

To watch this event live, visit www.whitehouse.gov/live at 1:30 pm ET on April 12th.

Harold “Gus” Frank is Chairman of the Forest County Potawatomi Community. Under his leadership, the Potawatomi have taken a proactive approach to environmental issues and taken practical steps to help ensure that future generations have access to clean air, water and land. The Tribe has also implemented several significant energy efficiency projects and increased the use of renewable energy on the reservation, considerably reducing its overall energy use and carbon footprint. Chairman Frank has been serving in tribal leadership for 16 years.
